

Lucky is that youth who is made to realize that his real happiness will be meted out in ratio to the good and honest service he performs during his life. If he is taught that all he owns is time and his talent, that he must utilize both with industry and intelligence, oh, luckier is such a lad!

Clark-Corkery Vows Spoken at St. James

At a ceremony Saturday afternoon, attended by more than 200 guests, in St. James Episcopal church, Barbara Gail Corkery became the bride of Ernest Stanton Clark. The Rev. Fletcher Plant performed the 4 o'clock ceremony.

A garden reception immediately following the ceremony was at the home of the bride's parents, the Richard John Corkerys of West Maple, Birmingham. Ernest is the son of Mrs. Ernest S. Clark of Quincy, Mass., and the late Mr. Clark.

BARBARA chose for her wedding day, a white ballerina length gown featuring a lace empire bodice with a sabrina neckline, short sleeves and full tulle skirt. A crown of lace flowers and seed pearls secured her veil of silk illusion. A bouquet of stephanotis and ivy with two white orchids completed the bridal picture.

Lynda Corkery was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Sue Reason, Nancy Walek and Penny Nelson, all of Birmingham. They were gowned alike in pink chiffon ballerina length dresses with matching picture hats. Cascades of blue mums and ivy were carried by the attendants.

JAMES E. BLIGH of Quincy, Mass., served as best man. Guests were seated by James Murray of Detroit, Donald Mann of Allen Park and Tom Girvin of Dearborn. Richard William Corkery was ring-bearer.

The bride's mother chose a yellow linen sheath with matching organza hat and accessories. Mrs. Clark selected a white cotton lace sheath over powder blue with matching accessories. Both mothers had orchids.
