Cited for Artistic Landscaping

The Federated Garden clubs of Michigan "award of appreciation" for artistic landscaping to White Chapel Memorial Park cemetery is accepted by E. Reed Hunt, White Chapel president. Recommended by the Birmingham Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association and the Federated Garden clubs of Michigan, the presentation was made by Mrs. F. Gordon Davis (left), president of the local branch. Mrs. Nelson Miles (center), WNFGA treasurer, states that the lovely display of tulips each spring without all the other artistic beauty, makes the organization worthy of the recognition.

Parties Original

By VIRGINIA COLE

In answer to a number of requests for the games included in this party, here they are again. Incidentally, one of the hopes of the author of this column is that you will clip the column and keep a party scrap-book of them so that when you are frantically searching for ways to entertain, you have a ready reference.

An appropriate party for this season of the year is a watermelon party. Adults, teens or pre-teens will love it.

Invite guests for 5 p.m. Upon their arrival, have ready plenty of ham-salad sandwiches, coles and a candy bar each. While they are eating, divide them into two teams by having each draw a number out of a hat. All odd numbers are one team, evens the other.

AFTER eating, reveal your plans for a treasure hunt. Previous to the party, you have laid out an extensive treasure hunt trail by tacking signs to trees, posts, buildings, etc.

Have two trails marked, one for each team. Lay them one in opposite directions but both, ultimately ending at the one treasure. The idea is to see which team can progress on their trail the fastest and get to the treasure first. Treasure is watermelons enough for the gang.

To place your treasure, put the melons in a gunny sack, tie it shut and drop it into a lake, pool, stream, well, or any place to cool melons for good eating. The sack will to a dock, tree, or something firm. Put them there early in the day to allow them to get cold.

THE team first to find the treasure is winner and gets individual prizes. However, they await the other team to share melons with the losers.

Provide each person with a paper cup and tell them to save their seeds. Then let them fall-to and enjoy the treat. Provide a large can for rinds and plenty of mopping up paper toweling. With their seeds, they may now play two games; a seed-spitting contest and a seed relay. These will be done in their original teams.

PREVIOUS to the party, you have prepared a two-yard strip of plain colored oil cloth by marking it off in squares with large black lines. Place in center of each square a number—any number. Lay the strip on the ground. Have player stand about three feet back from it at a designated starting line.

Individually, the players of each team step up and spit 10 seeds, seeing how far they can spit them. Higher numbers are farther away. Team getting most collective points wins. Prizes.

SEED RELAY—Put teams in two parallel lines with an empty paper cup in front of each line. About 100 feet ahead of each team, place bowl in which all remaining seeds of all players have been deposited.

Give first runner of each team a teaspoon. He runs to the bowl, scoops as many seeds into the spoon as he can, runs back, puts them into the paper cup, hands the spoon to next player. Continue until all on each team have run. Count seeds in each team's cup to determine winners. Prizes.
