First of Its Kind

Birmingham Fire Chief Park Smith (right) presents Joseph W. Torrence (center), president of Torrence Oil Co., 2205 Holland, with the first award given by the department in recognition of exceptional work in fire prevention. At left is George Scott, fire marshal. To be given periodically by the department, the awards have to (in Scott's words), "be earned." He said this recognition to Torrence was well-earned because the firm is one of the more potentially hazardous spots in Birmingham.

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

THE STORK got on the Birmingham police blotter again this week. The daily report for Sunday reads: Baby boy born at 2 a.m. to Officer Frank Stubbfield, (of Berkley) 8 pounds, 3 ounces.

AMONG THE many things American Field Service students at Birmingham high school said they would miss when they go back home was Hely Heldenstein's regret: "When I go back to school in Luxembourg, no longer will people stop me in the halls and say, 'Say something, I like to hear your accent.'" Hely spoke as she and other AFS students said official farewells to their assembled schoolmates at Swing Out Friday. This Wanderer would describe Hely in one word—sweet.

Thanks, folks! That's what Birmingham Exchange Club President Harry Wesch would like to say to all the people who are brushing their teeth with Exchange club toothbrushes. Their purchases at the recent street sale made possible the Exchange club's presentation last week of a check to James Mattice representing Camp Oakland. The funds will be used for summer camp for underprivileged children. Mattice told Exchanges their groups ranked as a large supporter of the worthy program.

WHAT DO THESE three Birmingham high school graduates in the class of '57 have in common? Their names are David Parnie, Peter Loomis, and Mary Ellen Groves. Their common denominator: all are children of Birmingham board of education members, Mrs. Elaine Parnie, Mrs. Kathryn Loomis and Wylie Groves, respectively. It's the first time the B of E has been known to be represented by as many as three members of a BHS senior class.

SEE "AMERICAN" A COLONIAL CRYSTAL FOR CONTEMPORARY TASTE

Long ago, a craftsman produced in glass, the unique, geometric pattern pictured above. It became a favorite design, reflecting the rich and warm hospitality of early New England life.

Recreated by Potstoria, "American" is again a national trend. Modern handcrafting makes it less expensive than the original heirlooms. Nevertheless, modern "American" holds all of its ancestral fascination.

Antique, in conception, "American" is a perfect companion for homes which are in the modern trend toward colonial simplicity. Or for any setting of cozy comfort and warm hospitality.

"American" excels not only in beauty, but in durability, too... a rugged crystal for years of daily service... an extraordinarily inexpensive open stock pattern in a selection of 175 separate pieces. Now on display

NEW DESK IN BIRMINGHAM

There's a new desk in our Birmingham office—and the man behind it is experienced in the business of administering estates and trusts.

That doesn't mean you have to be a wealthy man to see him. Not at all.

The plain fact is, you should have a chat with him if you have just an ordinary amount of life insurance... an equity in your home... and perhaps some savings.

This man is at his Birmingham desk every Friday, and any other time during banking hours, to suit your convenience by appointment.

He's there to save you North Woodward people a trip downtown. And he can save you much more than that... perhaps a lifetime of security for the ones you cherish.

Why don't you and your attorney arrange to see him soon?
