

Any form of human society that rewards the leader while it penalizes the worker is destined to fall of its own lighness. It is no more possible to grow a great forest by pulling growing it from them it is to expect warfarism to produce civic stature.

Ex-Teacher Is Instructress At Bloomfield Open Hunt

Youngsters Learn Courtesy From Horse Named "Sunday"

At the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club on Long Lake road, an ex-school teacher now uses a horse named "Sunday" to teach youngsters courtesy, patience, discipline, and sportsmanship.

Violet Hopkins, 1175 Chapin, Birmingham, has been the riding instructress at BOH for five years. She attended Michigan State Normal and the University of Colorado. Miss Hopkins has taught Michigan early elementary schools in Oronoda, Romeo, Flint, and Oxford. Today she has a life certificate for schoolteaching.

The 40th anniversary event of the Detroit Horse Show opened among the guests at a reception and musicale Monday evening at the National Federation of Music Clubs and a performance of the recently composed cantata "The Creation," by Delta Omicron member of Beta chapter, Winslow Slaby, in which the chorus is composed of all local chapters.

She has studied and worked with Arthur Konyot, an expert in dressage (now with Arthur Godfrey's stables) Eric Bubble, an internationally known German instructor, and Captain Littour, who headed clinics for the National Section of Girls and Women's Athletics.

She came to BOH after spending six years as riding instructress for the 14-mile road Outland stables.

Miss Hopkins would rather teach than ride. She presently has pupils from six to sixty. One of the youngest, Margaret Butler, 9, daughter of Aldis P. Butler, 285 Hawthorne road in Birmingham, is just learning cantonments, while Mrs. Graham J. Graham of Bloomfield Hills who says, "I'm never too old to learn," takes a lesson from "V" occasionally to sharpen up her dressage. The first few things to work toward with a new rider, according to Miss Hopkins, is security; unity with horse; and, to develop in the rider the ability to communicate to the horse what he desires.

THE ETHICS of the course and traffic in the school ring teach children to look out for others as well as their own safety. In the practice ring, cantoring riders are given preference on the outside; trotters take the center lane traffic; and, walking and exercising pupils stay in the middle of the ring.

More children are competing in the Detroit Horse Show this year for trophies and ribbons than ever before. While more than $10,000 will be awarded in prize money, the real reward for the children who spend weeks practicing and working with their horses is the satisfaction of a good performance from the animal they love. The six day event, open to the public will run through Sunday.

Riders in This Week's Show

are in the Detroit Horse Show this week, Tuesday through Sunday. "I would rather be a horse widow than a golf widow," Mrs. Havermale said good naturedly. "My family spends more time with their horses during the weeks prior to the horse show than they do with me."

Farewell Fete Turns to Surprise

Judith Ann Dodrill had thought no one could really accomplish a surprise party on her. Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Dodrill, achieved the "surprise" fete this past Saturday, although they had to plan in a roundabout way. First, Dr. and Mrs. Dodrill, who resides at Woodberry road, Bloomfield Hills, chose June 22 as the date to celebrate Judy's 18th birthday anniversary which was still two weeks in the future.

Then they let their daughter construe that the festivity was to be a "farewell" for three foreign exchange students, scheduled to depart this Thursday, June 27, for their homes in Europe.

The Saturday evening fete was a dinner-dance at the Detroit Athletic Club. Judy's surprise came with the chorus of congratulations by her 17 friends at the long, flower-decked table in DAC's main dining room, and "Happy Birthday" by the Georges Trudeau orchestra. An elaborate birthday cake was the final touch.

Judy's date was Tomas de Lima Bronquinho da Fonseca, who returns to Lisbon, Portugal. Hely Heldenstein, of Luxembourg, and Klaus Parsch, whose home is in Germany, were the other exchange students. The trio spent a year here and were graduated June 20 from Birmingham High School with Judy and others of the party group.

Places at the table also were marked for Judy Krempa, Ted Murray, Beverly Ford, Ken Hogan, Judy Walker, Barclay Gano, Sue Beursens, Don Sanberg, Ginger Backus, Don Thacker, Janice Eskew, Bob Sawyer. Dr. and Mrs. Dodrill entertained Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krempa at a nearby table.

Glad Reunion for Bridal Pair

Andrea Claire Snyder and her fiance, Lt. (j.g.) Robert Addison Ely, will be honored Friday evening at the rehearsal dinner to be given by the bridegroom-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Ely, of Dallas, Texas. Andrea is the daughter of the Myron Eugene Snyders, of 1901 Kenwood, Birmingham.

Lt. Ely, who has been on sea duty much of June aboard the radar ship, the USS Vance, will fly in from Seattle on Friday, the day of the party. It will be a glad reunion for the bride and groom who last saw each other in February. They will be married at Saturday evening rites in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Before taking their party into DAC's main dining room for the rehearsal dinner and dancing, the senior Mr. and Mrs. Ely will entertain at a cocktail fete in the club's large private dining room.

BESIDES Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, guests will include the couple's attendants who are Andrea's sister and matron of honor, Mrs. Peter J. Van Boven, Jr., of Ann Arbor; Mary Ann Spohn of Clarkston, maid of honor; Shirley Curtis of Cleveland, Patricia Likert of Ann Arbor, the bridegroom's sister, Sandra Ely of Dallas, Sara Trythall of Orchard Lake, Sally Wilkinson, Joanne Pedder and Nancy Tischer, bridesmaids.

More are the best man, Lt. (j.g.) Wayne T. Cooke, and ushers Peter J. Van Boven, Jr., Lester Lum Colbert, Jr., Ronald Foulds of Pittsburgh, William Diener of Boston, Robert Law and Richard Anslow of Grosse Pointe, and Richard Glass of Royal Oak.

The rehearsal party list continues with the out-of-town wedding guests: Mrs. Wilson D. McNary and her son Wilbur of Vancouver, Wash.; Mrs. Paul Koch, Dr. and Mrs. LeRoy Black and the James Elys, all of Rutherford, N.J.; Mrs. Addison Ely of Westfield, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. John G. Banta, of Red Bank, N.J., and Miss Patricia Ely, of New York.

Returns from B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ferrée have recently moved to their new home at 6534 Putnam drive on Walnut Lake. Mrs. Ferrée has just returned from a 10-week trip to Vancouver, B. C., where she visited her family.

Workshops Underway At Art Association

The vacation series of Art Workshops, sponsored by the Bloomfield Art Association in cooperation with the Detroit Institute of Arts, opened Monday with a great show of enthusiasm from budding young artists of the first and second grades.

The Art Workshops which are being held at the Association's headquarters at 361 North Woodward, Birmingham, will continue for a six-week period through August 1st. The third and fourth grade classes are held every Tuesday. The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades are scheduled on Wednesday. More advanced students of high school age meet for instruction Thursday mornings.

MRS. J. Vinton Birch, education chairman for the Bloomfield Art Association, believes the enthusiastic response for the workshops indicates a real need for the project in the community. Because of space limitations the class enrollment was closed at 200 and the Association regrets that so many children were disappointed when their applications were turned down because of necessity. William A. McGonagle, curator

MRS. Birch and her committee are assisting with the supervision of the classrooms. Monitors serving for one session each week are Mrs. Albert C. Childs, Mrs. John Hopkin, Jr., Mrs. Max Fruhauf, Mrs. Mary E. Woodward, Mrs. Everett E. Hammonds, Mrs. Randolph Heizer and Mrs. John P. Dacey. Alternates monitors are Mrs. George O. Cutter, Mrs. Robert A. Reid, Mrs. A. A. Appleford, Mrs. Herbert H. Gardner, Jr., Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Mary Elvett and Mrs. C. R. Obermyer.

Reception Honors National Board

Mrs. Milton H. Petzold of New York, National president, was among the guests at a reception and musicale Monday honoring the national board of Delta Omicron National Professional Music Fraternity during a visit to Detroit for the annual meeting June 24-28. Included in the local chapters doing the entertaining was Zeta Xi, Oakland County alumnae chapter.

Off to California

President of Alpha Omega Alpha chapter of Alpha Chi Omega, Mrs. W. W. Birchard, of Stanley boulevard, left Saturday to attend the 31st biennial convention at the Huntington-Sheraton of Pasadena. She boarded the convention train in Chicago, with a stop-over in Salt Lake City to attend the organ concert at the Mormon Temple. In Las Vegas, the travelers had dinner at the fabulous Riviera hotel. Mrs. Birchard's daughter, Gay, left the previous Saturday on a Chet Sampson tour and her mother will join her in Hollywood for a brief visit on July 1. Mrs. Birchard plans to remain in California for a week after the convention.
