and it will be shown by Mrs. Lauer. She will also parade in an English flannel three-piece suit... the two-piece suit is covered with a cape edged in beige fox... it's a Hass Felt design.

FOR early summer Mrs. John E. Murphy will appear in a black handkerchief linen with an illusion top of net and the entire dress featuring graduated lace.

Silk linen dresses in imported fabrics are strongly emphasized and many interesting trends too. There will also be smart co-ordinates, sweaters and skirts with matching silk shirts, daytime ensembles in drip dry and pretty passels with pleated and full skirts.

"MIDNIGHT BURIAL" was the title of the play presented last night by Girl Scout troop 375, when all Quanton school troop members and their fathers gathered to observe Girl Scout Week. The play revolved around attempts of several campers to bury a poisoned cake. Some of the girls think they are trying to hide it from the others, and find it and start to eat. Elaine Hudson (second from right) was restrained from eating the cake by Sandra Schmetzky. Others in the cast were (front row, from left) Ellen Webster, Patty Wyatt, Mary Lou Bruns, Julie Erickson and Judy Frey. Back row, from left, are Kathleen Thompson, Sue Crandell, Patty Roach, Judy McKewen, Elaine and Sandra.

Father-Daughter Dinner Celebrates Girl Scout Week

Last night, girl scouts, from Quanton school, and their fathers, gathered for a dinner in the Quanton community house, in observance of Girl Scout Week.

The scout colors of yellow and green were carried out in table decorations, which also featured a display of foreign dolls.

All of the Quanton teams participated in the event. Troop 588, under the leadership of Mrs. Earl E. Conlin, conducted the flag ceremony. Mrs. Fred N. Cannon's troop 330 gave the scout promise. Troop 329 and Mrs. Lawrence R. McIntosh's troop 184, both in troop 375, also participated in the event. Troop 588, under the leadership of Mrs. Earl E. Conlin, conducted the flag ceremony.
