

Spring Brings New BHS Teachers

Comes spring, come new teachers, to Birmingham high school. In social studies, Allen Johnson takes the place of John Blaine, recently recalled into service. Mr. Johnson graduated from Wayne. Student teachers coming from State will begin teaching April 1. In the English department, Mrs. Constance Carr will be with Charles Sueli; Miss Elaine Dickey with Mrs. Henrietta Cortright and Miss Dorothy Young; Miss Cynthia Drew, who will become Cynthia Drew, who will become under Miss Dorothy Allen and Mrs. Mary Hartwick. Dorene Harma will work with George Pappas and Edward Tarsis, social studies teachers; and Collin Labbe will be with Angelo Angelo in the speech department.

Bloomfield Hills Billboard

The senior high choir of Bloomfield Hills is to be highly praised for its fine job done at Royal Oak high school last week during the Michigan district choir festival. Both the mixed choir and the girls' choirs got a superior 1 rating from each of the three judges, plus favorable compliments afterwards to the director, Mr. Clarence Luchtman.

More music news: Our school has the honor of a visit from the Central State college choir tomorrow morning. They are on their annual spring tour during which their director, Dr. Eugene Grove, says seven state high schools will be visited.

That same night and the following Monday are the next two All-league choir concerts at Millard and Holly high schools. Each school in the Wayne-Oakland County league has during which members singing these nights. The program is to be the same as it was Wednesday, March 20.

Girls' Athletic association had a meeting recently at which they furthered plans for a dance with a mixture of square and social dancing for the coming elections for next year's officers.

The senior student council's drive to collect money for Hungarian relief was a great success. They sent over their goal of two tons of food because of the generosity of the students.

Sophomores at BHS ordered their class rings this week.

Because of the increasing numbers of girls wishing to join Phi Sigma Delta, sophomores have been divided into three new chapters. Theta, with 22 members, has as its officers the following: president, Shirley Smith; vice, Marilyn Anderson; secretary, Sandra Nunnally; and treasurer, Janice Boonora.

Officers of Omega are president, Kay Lee; vice, Pat Basar; secretary, Laurence Korthamp; and treasurer, Donna Carnoff. This chapter has 14 members.

The nine members of Delta are headed by president, Philmore Drummond; vice, Sarah Davis; secretary, Judy Marshall; and treasurer, Karen Graham.

Juniors have decided to give the traditional banquet for seniors at Birmingham Country club sometime in the late spring.

Our student council store has just started to sell blue and white decals which you may purchase and put on your car, books and just anything.

Last Friday a few of our seniors discussed the topic "Do you consider modern youth to be good readers?" on the radio station WENL. Those giving out their views on the subject were Dennis Dinan, Dick Bailey, Mary Stacey, Sheila James, and Lovetta Pappas. They were accompanied by Miss Vera Grim, language instructor at the school.

Kingswood Column

By CAROLINE CROSS

Results of the election for officers of the Kingswood student council and church cabinet have been announced.

The new president of the student council is Jill Shalleross; vice-president, Sally Waddell; and secretary-treasurer, Sara Bartholomew.

The cabinet members are Judy Frederickson, Julie Allen, Miles Cummings, and Starr Walker. Cabinet co-chairman is Missy Kirk, and the dormitory council president is Katie Williams.

These officers will begin to assume partial responsibility now, and will take full control next fall.

The junior operetta, "The Familiar Stranger," was held Saturday at Kingswood. The theme of the production was woven around folk music and was well carried out by the junior glee club under the direction of Mrs. Lois Chapman and Miss Ruth Furstenburg. Ian McNaughton, Alice Wright, Valerie French, Carol Wilson, Jaedee Roberts, Linda Wessels, and Valerie Armstrong played leading roles.

The winners of the contest held by the Acorn, Kingswood's literary magazine, have been announced. Cyril Jenner and Sheila Smith tied for first place in the senior division. Ann Anderson and Mary Shaw received honorable mention.

In the ninth and tenth grades—the first place winners were Sherry Marker and Kristine Gilmarin, and Jane Anderson won honorable mention. The seventh and eighth grade winner was Gail Burgess; Carolyn Vogt received honorable mention.

Speech, Civics Students Visit State Legislature

Some Birmingham high school speech and civics classes visited Lansing recently to observe the state legislature.

White studying parliamentary procedure, the advance speech classes of Angelo Angeleci, speech instructor, decided they wanted to see the state legislature in action. Robert Richards, civics instructor, also took some members of his civics classes; about 104 students went.

After lunching with representative Farrell Roberts, district three, and touring the capitol, the group sat in the gallery and watched a session of the legislature.
