Sheath Lines Are Seen In Spring Shoes

The shoe sheath—newest fashion trend in women's shoes since high buttons went out of style—dominates the passing scene below the ankle this spring. It's an artfully designed pump, closed up front and back, with tapered toes for a slender look, and it's crafted in every leather imaginable—smooth, suede, grain, patent.

SHOE colors are light neutrals such as dove gray, sandbar and nougat beige; new pastels such as primrose yellow and bubble blue; or strong rich shades such as flight blue, orange and turquoise. Touches of white add a special freshness. Textures show brightness, for grainy as well as smooth shoe leathers come in lustered or highly polished finishes, and suedes are short-napped with a rich gloss.

GUILD patent, newly grained or familiarly smooth, is much in evidence, in black or color, alone or in combination with shiny calf or kid, or colored suede. Casual shoes and speciators have taken to leather linings in check, cord, striped, swirled, floral and lace-like web designs of many colors brighter than the shoe itself. Toes are pointed in many different manners. Flats may have a blunted point or a point like a wide "V."

MOST daytime shoes have moderately pointed toes of varying length, while late-day and evening shoes come to a long, elegant, sharpened point. Shape of the toe helps determine that of the heels, with points of varying degrees, taking the sharp stiletto, the delicately rounded mid-heel or the low Louis.

Even stacked leather heels on our line.

flats are related to the elongated shape of the toe. The classic pump silhouette is varied by such devices as tongues in petal shapes, laced "weekkit" straps over the instep (lower than last year), spat effects and new low-cut designs on the toe.

Sleeves "Go Soft" In Newest Styles

Sleeves have "gone soft" this spring in keeping with the generally softer dress silhouette of the season. One favored treatment is the blouse or balloon effect, achieved through lantern shapes with fullness starting directly at the shoulder.
