LILLIAN WARNER
Tax Collection Record Pleases New Treasurer
 Tax collections in West Bloomfield township reached an all-time high by the Feb. 28 deadline with over 91 percent of the 1956 county school and township taxes collected. Mrs. Lillian Sue Warner, treasurer, announced this week.

Issuing such a statement is enough to make almost any township officer happy, but it was especially reassuring to Mrs. Warner as this was her first tax collection as treasurer. She was appointed to the post last August by the township board after the former treasurer left to become clerk-treasurer of the new city of Keego Harbor. Mrs. Warner then was elected to the post with only slight opposition Feb. 18.

MRS. WARNER credits the high percentage paid to reminder notices she instituted this year. They were sent by her office to taxpayers who had not paid their taxes by Feb. 15 on the theory that some people were busy and had forgotten the approaching deadline. "The last two weeks of collections were extremely heavy," she reports.

Most people, she says, commented that they appreciated the reminder. She plans to repeat it next year. She has been secretary to the township supervisor from 1942 to 1956. Mrs. W. is quite familiar with township operations. She finds this service helpful as part of her job is sitting on the township board. In addition, she draws up a period of service in the treasurer's office in the early '40s.

KNOWN AS Sue to her husband and friends, she uses her full legal name only on the job. A resident of the township since 1941, she and husband Jack make their home at 3425 W. Long Lake road. An attractive brunette, she laughingly admits to being 39 "like Jack Benny. (She really is but doesn't look it.)"

While the treasurer's office is open 9 to 5 weekdays except Mondays when it stays open until 8 p.m., those are not the treasurer's hours. At least once a month she comes back for the regular township board meeting. There often are additional ones, as right now while next year's budget is being prepared.

TWO WEEKS AGO, for example, Mrs. W. attended three evening sessions. During the daytime, too, she cooperatively is trying to tailor her treasurer's duties to fit the "even busier" schedule of Hill and M. Thatcher, township supervisor.

First Spring Exhibit to Open at Cranbrook
 Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries will open its first exhibition of the spring season Friday evening, April 5, from 8 to 10 p.m. according to Wallace Mitchell, head of galleries.

From April 1 to November 1 the galleries will be open to the public daily from 2 to 5 p.m., except Mondays and major holidays. Titled "Recent American Paintings and Sculpture," the works in this exhibition were chosen from the 1957 Whitney Annual in New York, which this year benefited in quantity by combining its usual two annual shows into one.

"Most of the works included," says Mitchell, "are abstract or semi-abstract, though there is evidence of a growth in the number of artists who, while continuing to work abstractly, evoke associations of figures or natural forms, or landscapes and cityscapes in their work."

Augmenting the Whitney Annual selection are recent American paintings from private collections and galleries. Sculpture and paintings done by Academy students occupy another gallery, and a downstairs gallery will show work from the amateur classes in painting and drawing which have been held in the galleries through the winter months. This is the first time Cranbrook has shown the work of amateurs.

No Shortage Here
 An estimated 4,000 gallons of gasoline flowed from a gasoline truck onto the highway at Square Lake road and Telegraph when the truck driver was unable to close the tank opening Tuesday. Bloomfield township fire department flushed the gasoline off the highway and down the bordering ditches, with water.
