

MRS. JOHN WILLAN ROUX

Mary Lou Gregory Wed In Methodist Ceremony

After pledging their marriage vows Saturday evening in First Methodist church, Mr. and Mrs. John Willan Roux greeted guests at a reception in Devon Gables. Dr. Arnold F. Runkel performed the double-ring, candlelight wedding ceremony.

The bride is the former Mary Lou Gregory, daughter of the Amos Franklin Gregorys of Dorchester road, Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Charles Roux of Maplewood, N. J., are parents of the groom.

The maid of honor, Lee Engelking of Hubbard, Iowa, was distinguished by her nosegay bouquet of pink roses and violets with violet streamers. Nosegays of pink roses, pink carnations and violets, with streamers, were carried by the matron of honor, Mrs. Amos F. Gregory, Jr., of Birmingham, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Halpin of Columbus, Ohio, Helen MacSwords of Cleveland and Susanne Roux, sister of the groom. Shoes and handbags in a violet hue completed their ensembles.

MARY LOU selected a princess styled bridal gown of silk pseudo-sole, with a sweeping train. Beembridged alencon lace medallions framed the short sleeves and bateau neckline.

A crown of lace medallions and seed pearls secured her veil of French illusion. Stephanotis, white roses and white moth orchids were arranged for her bouquet.

Mrs. Gregory attended her daughter's wedding in a powder blue lace sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of brown orchids. The mother of the groom also chose accessories in a matching hue for her pink lace dress. Her flowers were pink orchids.

JOHN asked his father to be best man, and ushers were Amos F., Jr., and Richard B. Gregory, brothers of the bride, Neil Van Vliet of New Providence, N. J., Robert Neff of East Orange, N. J., and Frederick Mamerow of New York city.

The bride's going-away costume was a grey wool suit with fitted bodice and pleated skirt, topped by a coral cape. Her accessories were gray, and a coral flower trimmed her white hat.

Upon returning from a boat trip to Bermuda, the newlyweds will
