

There is considerable tendency, these days of mid-20th Century, to keep thinking "These are hectic days. So much to do in order to get so little that is satisfying. So few evidences of peace and quiet. So much to worry about." What is the cure? Perhaps one needs to pay more attention to his soulful needs.

Mrs. Moons Enters Federal Show

Mrs. John C. Moons of Bellevue trail has entered a display in the show sponsored by District 1 of the Federated Garden clubs of Michigan. Theme of the show which opened Tuesday and will continue through Friday at the Charles W. Warren Co. on Washington boulevard, Detroit, is "The International Geophysical Year." Mrs. Moons calls her display "Fire Opals." Materials used are peacock feathers gathered from a farm in Naples, Fla., while visiting there with the Ben Rahlis of Puritan avenue, Birmingham.

Surprise Party Honors Dowlings

Franklin J. Dowling was let in on the secret, but to Mrs. Dowling the party Saturday night was a complete surprise in honor of their 26th wedding anniversary.

Instigator of the celebration was Mrs. Robert M. Allston with the assistance of Mrs. David Beauvais and Mrs. J. G. Edwards.

BESIDES the some 60 guests arriving at the Dowlings West Long Lake home Saturday evening, telegrams and long distance telephone calls came from California, New York and Washington.

Among the Saturday evening guests were many of the Dowlings former school chums whom they had not seen for many years.

ASSISTING with the party arrangements were daughter, Virginia, and her roommate at Alhambra, Phyllis Steele, who presided at the punch bowl. The table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, flanked by tall silver candelabra. Shattered large white mums with touches of silver further keyed the decorations. The celebration did not end Saturday night, 18 more friends dropped in Sunday to extend greetings.
