Players Discuss Holiday Party

FRANKLIN—With the applause of their last show still ringing in their ears, the Franklin Village Players will meet Nov. 22, at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harlow Bates, 26515 W. 13 Mile. Plans for the annual New Year's Eve party and a discussion of the spring play will augment reports from the "White Sheep of the Family" effort earlier this month.

Have You Met . . .

Jane and Walter Foote who moved into the former Behm home on Woodside, Franklin, recently? Here from Rosedale Park, the Footes have a son, Malcolm, 20, who graduated from St. Johns Military academy. Foote is a manufacturer's representative.

Nassau Vacation

BINGHAM FARMS—Mrs. John Longley of Bingham road returned Monday from a three-week holiday in Nassau where she was a guest of a sister-in-law. A stop-over in Atlanta, Ga., to visit a sister broke up the long flight home.

Halloween Fair Financial Success

FRANKLIN—With a few accounts outstanding, and one or two bills yet to come in, the Franklin school PTA summarizes that the Halloween Fair held in October was a financial success.

Mrs. Norman Curtis, general chairman for the past three years, states that approximately $560.00 resulted in the once-a-year fund raising project. Although no official action has taken place, Mrs. Fred Ziegel PTA co-chairman let it be known that the school library would probably benefit most. "We were able to increase the number of books substantially after last year's fair, and we need many more before we can feel that there are enough to adequately serve the demand," she stated.

Woodcreek Farms Social Briefs

Art Thuresen of Old Colony road, who recently got Life magazine coverage on his Alaskan bear hunting trip, is at it again.

This time he headed for the Black River ranch near Onaway to deer hunt for a few days, returning Wednesday, sans kill . . . because venison is not a popular food at the family table. The skin from the mammoth brown Kodiak bear bagged in Alaska is due to make an appearance soon and will repose, with other trophies of past hunts, on the Thuresen recreation room floor.

While the wind howled on Thursday, Mrs. Richard Weedon entertained sixteen ladies at a luncheon and baby shower honoring Mrs. Peter Finn of Franklin and Mrs. Frederick Syme.

While Richard Norwall of Wallington was stalking deer near Grand Marais, Mrs. Norwall was entertaining her sisters, Mrs. Frank Burgardner and Miss Mary Stader of Ohio who came for a week's stay.

Mrs. William Dornan of Wallington road contrived a clever centerpiece for her Wednesday bridge luncheon out of peasant tail-feathers when she couldn't find any commercial turkeys. The feathers came from six birds her husband brought back from a recent Canadian hunting trip.

Walter P. Nickell Is Guest Speaker

FRANKLIN—Walter P. Nickell, popular lecturer at Cranbrook Institute of science, will be guest speaker when Cub Pack B-11 meets tonight in the multi-purpose room of Franklin school. Nickell's talk will be illustrated by colored slides taken in the field. Starting at 7:30 the program will also include the induction of two new Bobcats, Larry McGuire and St. Clair Cameron. Jeff Good will receive his Wolf badge award.

Group Plans Fashion Show

WOODCREEK FARMS—The Woodcreek women's association is planning a fashion show and luncheon at Orchard Lake country club at noon, Dec. 4. Mrs. Harold Pruess and Mrs. Robert Bieker are co-chairmen. Mrs. William Weightman, Mrs. Norman Krieger, Mrs. Earl McDonald, Mrs. Conrad Lam, Mrs. Zar Kader and Mrs. James Henfrew are on the committee.

Elect Officers

FRANKLIN—Boy Scout Troop B-11 met in Franklin Community church recently and elected Dr. Duane E. Larkins chairman of the scout committee. John Harris is assistant chairman; Bert Coburn, secretary; George Altmanberger, treasurer and Robert Winkle, representing the committee for young people.
