Serve Meals All Day At Christmas Fair

FRANKLIN—Predicated on the theory that good food is a prime requisite of most successful social functions, the food committee for the Christmas fair, Dec. 7 at Franklin Community church is scheduled to serve meals all day long.

Mrs. Donald Tracy, food chairman, says that even before the doors open, homemade doughnuts and coffee will be available to booth workers. The earliest shoppers might take advantage of this as Mrs. George Huffman will be making doughnuts on the spot from 9:00 till 10:30 a.m.

From 11 a.m. till 2 p.m. luncheon fare consisting of sandwiches, a salad bar and desserts will be served. Afternoon tea, from 2:30 to 4:30 will offer tea sandwiches using a variety of homemade nut breads for the shopper to nibble.

A FULL BUFFET dinner featuring a choice of ham or turkey will be available to families and late comers from 5 to 7 p.m. In between meals, shoppers will find a large variety of handmade items suitable for gift-giving at any one of the many quaint shops. A colorful assortment of aprons, made at the numerous work meetings this fall, will be presented by Mrs. Paul Ziegelbauer and her committee.

Mrs. Len-Madge is in charge of the doll booth where dressed dolls and co-ordinated doll ensembles will be sold. Goodies and palatable ready-for-the freezer items will appear from many Franklin kitchens to be sold at the Pantry shop by Mrs. Vernon Fisher and her co-workers.

THE ARTS and crafts department will offer a wide selection of original toys, gifts, jewelry and Christmas decorations, ranging from stuffed animals to ceramic ash trays. Mrs. L. J. Roberts has been in charge of such items. Potted plants, dried materials and arrangements, dried herbs and holiday greenery will be sold by Mrs. Paul Swan and her committee.

Always a favorite are the attic treasures, usable discards, which find new homes to appreciate them. Collecting this heterogeneous stock has been a full-time job for Mrs. F. McNab and Mrs. James Washburne.

LENDING THEIR assistance in serving food, the Franklin girl scouts under neighborhood chairman, Mrs. J. H. Holmes will also operate the fish pond and comic corner, a refuge for weary small fry. But none will be buster that the three second vice presidents in charge of ways and means, Mrs. John Harms, Friendly circle; Mrs. Earl Ramsey, Evening circle and Mrs. John Lackner, Fellowship circle who have planned the Christmas fair from the very beginning.

Gail Armstrong, a June graduate of Kingswood school, Bloomfield Hills, is president of her sorority pledge class at the University of Colorado.
