

Recreation Round Up

Senior Men
Meeting Friday at 10:30 a.m. After the regular business meeting Robert E. Girardin, director of recreation, will show and narrate slides on his recent trip through the west, including the fabulous Disneyland and Knotts Berry farm.

Hockey
Be sure and sign up for hockey if you are interested in playing again this year. The three league classifications are: Junior league, 15 and 14-year-olds; Intermediate league, 15-17 years of age; and Senior league, 18 years of age and above. Hockey instruction for ages 9-12 will be given shortly after the rink opens on Thanksgiving day.

Skating Instruction
Registration for skating instruction will begin Nov. 18. Rental periods will be available at that time also.

PVT. DENNIS GROOMS Home on Leave

Pvt. Dennis Grooms, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Grooms of Hanna, Birmingham, will serve 16 months in Germany. He is scheduled to leave Nov. 15.

Form UN Chapter At Nov. Meeting

A local chapter of the American association for the United Nations will be formed by civic representatives Nov. 18 at the Birmingham Community House. Mrs. Warren Cooksey, president of the greater Detroit chapter, will be guest speaker.

The association is a nationally incorporated organization to promote information about the UN.

Early Pranksters Do Their Work

Kept busy Halloween night by parties sponsored by Birmingham merchants, pranksters got out early and did their damage the night before.

Among the many incidents reported to police after "trick or treat" night were a bird being knocked off its stand, boys using fire crackers, boys throwing apple pie at a front door, and boys throwing eggs at cars.

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

SCHOOLS SOUGHT high participation rather than large contributions when they asked children to earn money and bring it to school for the United Foundation. Midvale school got more than 100 per cent participation, because they received a contribution from a former student, Geoffrey Hall. He insisted on giving his money before he left with his family for California, according to Midvale Principal Jack Greenawald. Mrs. Lucille Burkhardt, teacher who took charge of the drive, dreamed up a "Midvale family tree," erected of construction paper on the lobby's main display board. A leaf bearing each of the 288 children's names was fastened to the tree as the young worker paid.

ANYONE LOOKING for excuses to continue smoking should be delighted by the new one this Wanderer offered in Birmingham recently. Said an attractive matron as she puffed on a coffin nail, "I figure by the time I get lung cancer, they'll have figured out a cure for it!"

"HOPE YOU GET your money back," this Wanderer told Birmingham Patrolman Richard Chambers when he said he had to loan an accident victim $5 to take a cab to the hospital last Thursday. Reason for the loan, he said, was because the injured woman left her purse in another police car which had left the scene of the accident. "I'll get my money," said Chambers, "I've got her purse!"

"DID YOU HEAR about the high position I've been offered?" asks Birmingham Dog Warden Al Sundell, who says, "The Russians want me to go up there and get that dog back for them!"

LONG-AWAITED REPORT on Birmingham's tax assessing methods will be formally acknowledged by a spot on next week's city commission agenda. It is ready this week, but commissioners decided to make it public Monday night. It reportedly endorses present methods, and suggests relatively minor changes in policy and routine. The study was launched two years ago after a former Birmingham resident claimed procedures apparently seemed to result in different taxes on comparable properties.

HOW MUCH GREATER EFFICIENCY can you get? One Birmingham motorist knows his police force is Johnny-on-the-spot. He had parked his car on newly-paved Ferndale street when he went to work Tuesday morning. By noon, the city had installed a no-parking sign about 10 feet from his car. It had not yet been set in concrete, but was leaning to one side in the yet-unfilled hole. Under the windshield wiper was a violation ticket!

CONTRIBUTIONS to the "Sgt. Brown appreciation fund" now total $200, still quite a ways short of the amount needed to purchase a color television set for Birmingham's police hero. Monetary thanks from Birmingham residents can be delivered personally or by mail to P. G. Burnett, fund trustee, at the Woodward-Hamilton branch of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co.

Two from Area On Study Group

Two area residents have been named to a special committee which will explore ways of improving Oakland county government.

Mrs. Ann Ramsey of Franklin, former president of the Birmingham League of Women Voters, is a citizen-at-large member. Elmer Kephart of Bloomfield Hills is also a member.

Writer Comments On Barnum's Party

To the Editor:
I am writing in behalf of over 700 Junior high school students; for the staff and more than one hundred parents who gave their assistance at the Halloween Party at Barnum last Thursday night.

It was a tremendous success! We think a word of appreciation and thanks is long overdue to the business and professional men of Birmingham whose contributions support this annual celebration.

Anyone who observed the fine cooperation of the students who worked on the prize committees; the fun they all had at the dance and in the movies and game rooms; and the complete lack of vandalism is grateful for the investment made by these business-men to entertain our youngsters.

We feel recognition should be given to the committee of five people who have volunteered their time each year to organize the city-wide Halloween Party for the sponsors.

Also, we are indebted to Mr. Girardin and the city recreation department for their assistance in coordinating the affair.
