

It's going to be homcoming for many former sisters on the faculty of Holy Name school this Sunday. The spe-ial day has been planned in connection with the church's dedication this week.

dedication this week. Four of the five sisters CANDLER when it opened in 1928 will be back, and so will more than 30 other former members of the school's faculty. They'll join the 14 sisters who teach at Holy Name now, to attend 10 a.m. mass Sunday in a body. Between the mass and a noon luncheon they'll hold open house back at the school. Then they'll with their former students and members of the parish in St. Anne's hall. The day will close with benediction at 3 p.m. back in the church.

Guess who was a choir hoy in a Providence, R. I. church where W. Carleton Scott of Gilbert lake, was once the boy sograno soloist? "Scotty" mentioned the name to us when we were chatting at the Village Players' playhouse recently. One of the choir boys at Grace church, where he was fea-tured boy soprano, was a little fellow named Nelson Eddy!

Music figures in this note, too. Because the Rev. Harold E. Towne loved music and did so much to further St. James Episcopal church's excellant musical program. the Wonaal's auxiliary of the church has established a Hurold E. Towne music fund. It's to perpetuate his interest in good music.

Something new in music, far as we know, comes up this Christmastime. West Bloomfield Presbyterian church mem-bers are going to do some family caroling out in the area near the Middlebelt-Maple church site and aroand Walnut lake. They'll visit shut-ins, among others. So reports the Rev. Ralph C. Stribe, Jr., youg minister of the mission of First Presbyterian church. Birmingham, It took a little bird (name of Aires Burlingame) to report to us that Mr. Stribe was an ex-football star. Alice and he husband are University of Michigan alums who take an in-teres in the school's team.

"THOUGHT YOU'D BE interested to know," said Alice, who had read our feature on Mr. Stribe last summer. Never once did the modest Mr. Stribe mention a word about football when we interviewed him. Pretty sneaky, ehc. But he admitted it when we called him loday. He was first string right tackle on the offensive team in 1951 and 52. He played on the team that won for U. of M. at the Rose bowl in 1951.

A nationwide radio show gave a plug to Birmingham Town Hall, so efficiently managed by some wonderful gals at St. James Episcopal church. Shirley Eder of NBC's "Monitor" writes that her tapdd interview here with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelr ran on the show on a recent Sunday. "Tell the ladies of the Birmingham Town Hall," writes Shirley, "that they got a terrific nation wide plug." Ye olde church editor was present when Shirley taped the interview after Mrs. R's Town Hall lecture.
