Varsity and reserve cheerleaders planning the annual girl-child dance to be held Friday evening are Marie Sandusky, Janet Gotberg, Sharon Bradley, Bonnie Mikelson, Rev. Kochan, Judy Gotberg, Pat O'Hara, Elaine Correa, Carol Markis, Dee Deem, Judy Deem, Sharon Straw, Marcia Lawson, Karen Young and Rose Baldwin.

Jack Cochrane will be the speaker at the next meeting of the VCT Club on Monday. Cochrane has been in 40 countries, made six trips to Europe and two to the Orient.

At a meeting of the Debate club held Monday evening, members planned their schedule for the inter-lakes conference and the metropolitan debate conference. They made plans to attend the MEA conference to be held in Birmingham, and began organization of varsity and reserve debate squads.

The first debate of the season will be with Detroit country day school the week of Nov. 11.

The students operating the new Vari-Typer, a printing machine purchased by the school for the year book and school paper, have had their first experience with typing the actual copy for the paper. They have found it takes quite a bit of concentration to spell words correctly and avoid typing errors. Reaping experience on the machine are Joan O'Brien, Barb Troy, Radene Mikelson, Bonnie Mikelson, Pat Correll, Margaret Niemi, Grace Hodgkinson, Karen Larson, Paul Spicuzza, Ron Kerner, Bonnie Higgins, Geraldine Walz, Carolyn Nepstad and Judy Caddell.

As a form of initiation for Ron Kerner, who is learning to work the Vari-Typer, Karen Larson and Joan O'Brien took all of the old carbon ribbon, spread it out the length of the hall and began to roll it. They explained this was general procedure each time one used the machine. After it had been successfully accomplished, they explained to Ron that the ribbon was to be put under the cover of the machine. Ron watched the entire procedure in bewilderment. His face began to look more and more discouraged. Finally Karen and Joan, unable to hold back their laughter, explained it all was a joke.

Class Wants to Head for the Moon

If it's really important for us to be on the moon when the Russians get there, we don't have a thing to worry about. These fifth grade students in Pierce school teacher George Faramakis' room are anxious to help Americans make the first moon landing. When the photographer asked how many of them wanted to be the first to get to the moon, nearly every one of the youngsters raised his hand enthusiastically. The class's interest stems from a comprehensive science project on the solar system. Students made paper mache globes hanging from the ceiling which represent the planets, sun and moon, show their relative sizes and distances from one another.

Directs Reporters After Field Trips

"Mike fever" hit some of the fourth graders at Quanton school who put on an assembly last Thursday and Friday.

"But after two showings they agreed it was a breeze, and so much fun," said Mrs. Ruth Murray, the class's teacher.

Miss Susan Wonders, "MSU" co-operating teacher in Mrs. Murray's room, put on the assembly in which pupils reported on a field trip. Each child drew a picture depicting his selected subject. As the picture was flashed on a screen each student gave his talk in front of the microphone. The children's mothers attended the Thursday assembly and other classes saw the assembly Friday.
