style over tailored day dresses or over the elegance of afternoon cocktail and short dinner dresses.

HIGHLY WEARABLE costumes and suits are always a highlight of the showing. Magnificent fabrics like the Rodier wool are used exclusively and their rarity and beauty shows up particularly in the exquisite groups of late-day cocktail and evening gowns. Following the long established traditions, this special 1957 fall collection has been created to adhere to Mrs. Pierce's personal standards of beautiful taste, perfect quality and superb workmanship.

Exquisite fabrics, many of them made specifically to White-Pierce's own order, distinguish this year's new fashions.

Troth Reveals Altar Date

At an open house Sunday for the young couple's family and young friends, the engagement of Jane Ann Sweeney to Lawrence A. Stock was announced by her mother, Mrs. Joseph A. Sweeney of Hickory Grove road, Bloomfield Hills. She is the daughter of the late Joseph A. Sweeney, Lawrence is the son of the John L. Stocks of Farmington.

Both are graduates of the University of Detroit and plan a June 14th wedding.

K of C Invites Catholic Men

The Birmingham council of the Knights of Columbus is sponsoring a special open house Monday for Catholic men in the area interested in learning more about the organization.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the council's temporary headquarters above the Northwest bowling alleys, Northwest highway near 14 mile road.

JANE SWEENEY

A bill before Connecticut Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff would make slow driving impeding normal traffic flow a crime. The bill does not stipulate a penalty, leaving it to the discretion of the court.

Bloomfield Village

Broken Water Main Leaves Many Families High and Dry

Residents of Bloomfield Village awoke Monday morning to the fears that the Spooks of Sputnik had made a Halloween visit to their comfortable way of life. No one had any water.

Seems that during the night a water main had broken leaving the good citizens literally high and dry. Lots of dirty faced little angels in the streets, some with ing with tell-tale egg-on-chin and hot chocolate mustaches.

Dads went grumbling out of the house with no coffee and toothbrush in pocket. Rumors have it that the men's lavatories in the GM building revealed the color of many an executive's toothbrush handle that fateful day.

When one young hopeful chose this time to drop a bit of grape jelly on his sparkling white school shirt, his resourceful mom quickly dipped into the fish-bowl for a bit of water to rescue the situation. Thanks to the corner drug store, a goodly number of distraught mothers soothed their jangled nerves over a cup of coffee after getting their families off to a truly dry-run for the day.

Boy scout troop B-15 of Bloomfield Village school had a campout last weekend from Friday evening to Saturday evening at D-Bar-A ranch at Metamora. The group consisted of 18 boys and four dads. Candidate scouts took their tests to fulfill requirements for tenderfoot and second and first class badges.

Monday evening this troop distributed the Torch drive folders to all community residents as one of their troop civic projects.

Dr. and Mrs. John Sisson of Overhill spent a few days last week in New York at the Waldorf. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kleinmuth of Bloomfield Hills.

Seldom have two couples covered so much territory and done so much in a short visit as these. They visited the Stork club, Metropole, Danny's Hide-Away, at Luchow's and Ruby Food's, saw Sammy Kay at the Roosevelt, did some sightseeing and saw two plays, "Auntie Mame" and "Lili Abner."

Mrs. F. J. Kreisel, chairman of the annual fair to be held Oct. 25 from 5 to 9 p.m., announced the completed plans. There will be an electric carousel, a haunted cave and games for the older children and for the younger ones.

Other features will be the village store, sugar plum tree, miniature golf and a cake walk. Supper will be from 5:30 on. There will also be prizes.

Mrs. J. P. Sullivan of Woodale road recently drove her daughter Patricia Ann to Purchase, N. Y., where she entered Manhattanville college as a freshman. Pat is specializing in music.

Enroute they visited old friends in W. Englewood, N. J. where they lived before coming here four years ago.

Another daughter Judy is a sophomore in Sacred Heart in Detroit this year.

Mrs. Henry Schlachter, Sr., of Cincinnati, Ohio, has moved here to make her home with her son Henry Schlachter, Jr., of Yarmouth road and his four children since the death of his wife last July.
