

Queen of Martyrs Students Elect Patrol Officers

The school safety patrol at Our Lady Queen of Martyrs finished the annual election campaign, with Carl Pinal elected captain. Dick LaFave gained the office of first lieutenant, and second lieutenant is Wesley Skovron. District captains from grades seven, six and five are Martin Reddy, Bernard Hengsbach, Tom Kavanagh, Charles

Moore, and Bruce Howard. The campaign was launched a week before the voting, when members of the safety patrol submitted nominations for the offices. Candidates set up their platforms and gave speeches to the voters in the classrooms. Others made their names familiar by having cards printed with the heading: "Elect a Winning Team". Playground parades led by banner bearers were a common sight during the electioneering.

Experience in the ways of democracy, plus training in good sportsmanship were goals realized, besides the filling of the offices.

Southfield Hi Notes

With only a 10 per cent absenteeism Monday morning, things around school were beginning to look up. The MCA meetings came at just the right time. They gave everyone two days to catch that bug that has been going around, and got over it. Last Wednesday we hit the highest percentage, 33 per cent of the students were absent.

This year's sophomores will be next year's juniors, and since it falls to the juniors to devise ways and means for a junior senior prom, it is necessary to start gathering the funds early. The sophomore class is organizing a project wherein they will sell Sander's candy as their fund raiser this year.

The Berkley band has accepted our invitation to play during the Homecoming game Friday at 4 p.m. Plans are being built for the half time parade by the various classes and clubs. Big don'ts coming up.

When the national scholarship qualifying examinations were given at Southfield Tuesday morning, 18 students applied for the examination.

Three of our student council members will go to Ann Arbor Tuesday to attend the 13th annual citizenship conference at the U. of M. from 10 to 3 p.m.

Southfield is scheduled to take part in the WEXL Junior Town Meeting tomorrow.

Senior class girls at Southfield are setting the pace for cold weather and style with their flashy knee sox, a nice practical style for waiting for the bus on cold mornings.

The senior magazine sales are now in their last week. The class has been divided into two teams to encourage competition among salesmen. The money is used for payment of the senior class trip to Washington in April. The combined goal of the teams is $7,000 and if this is made, the magazine company will give a pizza party for the class.

Up at U-M for the homecoming weekend were: Suzi Jenson, Lynn Roberts, Barb Miller, Sue Sundberg, Sue Clark, and Judy Marshall. In Ann Arbor just for the game were Gay Firth, Chuck Mezzy, Punch Lindbloom and Jim Kearney.

A PTO open house was held at Bloomfield last Monday night for parents. It included mock classes in accordance with students' schedules. These classes lasted ten minutes, during which the parents were briefed on the procedure of that class.

Whatever has happened to the variety party boys? Have they gone completely out of circulation? They must have gone into hiding for they haven't been seen at any recent parties.

Attendance in junior classes was nearly doubled Thursday, when mothers of juniors were guests of the school. Each mother accompanied her daughter to classes and had luncheon with the students and faculty in the school dining room.

The senior mothers visited the school the previous week, and today the sophomores are hostesses to their mothers.

After hectic weeks of work and rehearsal for their big project of the year—the autumn festival—the juniors donned nylons and heels and Saturday night best to attend a dinner party given by the class president, Miss Becky DeWitt. Saturday evening before the curtain went up on "Raccoon-ter".
