

Barnum Bylines

BY THE PRESS CLUB

Mr. Mark Devine, language arts and social studies teacher at Barnum Junior High School, taught at the University of Detroit last year. He went to college at John Carroll University and Western Reserve, both in Cleveland.

He was born in Prescott, Arizona; has a family of two children, a boy and a girl. He said he is very happy in Birmingham.

He served 20 months in the Army Intelligence and he was wanted to be a teacher ever since the eighth grade. — By John Groves-Bustly Foster.

In the past two weeks, we have had a tornado and a fire drill. Our tornado drill last week during the sixth hour was sounded over the public address system on a hand siren. A fire drill earlier was announced over the P.A. and took one minute and ten seconds, which was ten seconds less than the record. Mr. Hengst said we did a wonderful job and could even beat the time down by the end of the year. — By Pat Cryan.

For the band this year Barnum is going to have two majorettes leading them. They are eighth graders, Carol Hogg and Martha Kinnison. Whenever the band plays in a parade they will lead them. — By Mary Evans.

The girl's B-H association is being run by Miss Grubb, the new gym teacher. This year, swimming will also be added to the activities of B-H. Each week there will be a set time for the grade to enter the pool. The water ballet will also be conducted by the B-H. — By Sharon Stokes.

The student council has resumed its meetings with new representatives from each homeroom. Representatives from the seventh grade are Bob Bailey, Bonnie Bender, Tom Cook, Mike Flynn, Judy Frey, Bill Hartman, Jim Henderson, Gary Ihas, Wallace Kirkpatrick, John McCullough and Bill Pratt.

From the eighth grade are Marilyn Collins, Bob Coutlee, Janie Hubbard, Judy Lester, John McCracken, Romy Peterson, Laurie Smith, Pete Sobelton and Kitty Taylor.

From the ninth grade are Fred Glassford, Stewart Hatley, Judy Lawrence, Spencer Limbacher, Rod Lyle, Scott Purvis, Bill Sago, Chuck Tower and Howard Walker.

Southfield Teacher Shows Bullwhip As 'Dream Weapon'

A mallet, a baseball bat and a bull whip!

All part of a teachers' panel discussion on discipline? Well, yes, but members of the panel just brought them along to be used as shock tactics.

When Sanford Burr introduced his panel of experts at a meeting of high school teachers at Southfield high school last week, every other panel member placed his favorite dream weapon on the table, then went on to present civilized views on discipline.

The panel members were Rita Foote, Kenneth Hull, Irma Wright, Vincent Kachenderfer, Trillia Jacks, William O'Brien, and Beermann Brewbaker.

They Came A Long Way to School

From Japan, Norway and Italy, these four American Field Service exchange students have come to attend Birmingham area schools this year. They were dinner guests last week at the home of Mrs. Elroy L. Sandberg, (right) American Field Service representative. From left are Yukinobu Nomura and Marit Maaren, Birmingham high school students from Japan and Norway; Chris Platou, of Norway, who attends Cranbrook school, and Luciana Cagnasso, of Italy, now studying at Kingswood school. They make their American homes with the Birchards, the Holister Mableys, the Martin Butzels and the Brooks Marshalls respectively.

Cranbrook Corridors

BY LES PERRIN

Fred Woodworth, Robert Schirmer and Louis Potter have been selected as the editors of next year's Crane, Brook and Opus respectively.

As editor of the Crane, Woodworth plans to continue the five column issue now in use. Woodworth will be assisted in his work by Jim Morton, Bill Cunningham, Bill McGaughey and numerous others on the paper, which will be continued as a bi-weekly.

Another opportunity for the display of journalistic talent is offered by the Brook, Cranbrook's yearbook. Editor Robert Schirmer and faculty director Philip M. Clark, Jr., plan to institute many changes in this year's edition. Schirmer has decided on the general plan of the publication with the assistance of such boys as Jim Morton and Ozzie Jacobson.

The Opus, Cranbrook's literary magazine, will be edited this year by Louis Potter. The annual contains selections of the best prose and poetry written by the students. Working with Steve Schwartz and John Hartman, Louis will read as many papers as possible this year, concentrating on those which win awards in the Jasper Reid and Scholastic writing contest.

Closed Circuit TV Shown at BHS

To show the possibilities of using television as a teaching device was the purpose of the recent closed circuit television demonstration at Birmingham high school. Principals from all schools in the Birmingham school system attended the program.

Performing for the demonstration were Nicky Parsons and Don Andree. Nicky did a monologue and Don played a piano medley.

Sue Winton held a party recently for her ninth grade friends. Most of the people went to the preceding football game between Birmingham High and Cranbrook.

Among those attending were Carol Van Bussan, Roy Byrne, Scott Cameron, Brian Givens, Tim Bearden, Jean Maurer, Wendy Padon, Sid Sullivan, Pete Van Horn, Pat Mason, Gary McGee, Bill Lightbody, Josie Paulus, Bob Rouse, Karen Domes, Laurie Leech and Harry Dunn.

There has been talk to the effect that there will be a swimming club for girls, to be open for all girls living in the Birmingham area.

Derby's ninth grade football team defeated the eighth grade team in a scrimmage on Friday, Sept. 27. No official score was posted.
