This Thing Called HUNTING

1. To chase or go after—
2. To search through a region—
3. To use dogs or horses in a chase—
4. To drive away; pursue—
5. To try to find—
6. To look thoroughly—

SYNONYM:—harry, persecute, ransack, rummage.

There is nothing in the dictionary that indicates that a pheasant or a partridge or a deer caught (as a result of hunting) in the first 3 days of the season is any better than one caught in the middle or near the end of the same season.

Anyway, there is too much emphasis (from the employer's view point) put on this phase of hunting. It is discomfiting. But, let us forget that this is only one phase of "hunting" we wish to remind you of a few others so that the full glory of this word may be appreciated.

1. We are hunting for three FERTILIZER SPREADERS loaned to people for spreading fertilizer.
2. A lady was in the store last week hunting for a variety of vegetable seeds for fall planting.
3. Two Avon Sprinklers to be repaired have resisted an assiduous search.
4. A few hardy souls are hunting for the spot where they planted turnips, rutabagas and parsnips and have hunted for one food reason why they want to dig them up.
5. A diligent hunt is going on to find a time for another "coffee break" that won't conflict with the existing ones.
6. The hunt for reasons justifying the high rate we pay to have this column printed in the ECCENTRIC is a method of persuading you that your interest (if any) should be known to the Eccentric as well as to us.
6. A real hunt is being pushed by many people for the tools and equipment loaned to or borrowed by other well meaning but forgetful people.
7. A serious search for 3 cents in order to make our TRIAL BALANCE into a REAL BALANCE.
8. A method of producing a GOOD LAWN with IMPROPER MATERIALS, METHODS and TIMING.
9. A calendar with 17 holidays each month.
10. A way of proving to you that this is an ideal time to plant SPRING FLOWERING BULBS.
11. A system that will NOT OVERRATE football teams and cause the student body and "old grads" to be plunged into despair.
12. A PLACE and a METHOD for "getting away from it all".
13. A quicker method of mixing martinis.
14. A divining rod to find the bulbs you forgot to mark when they were in bloom.
15. Our hunt with the colleges, agricultural agents, Mid-West Turf Conferencers and other experts in order to provide you with the BEST in materials, methods, equipment, etc. in the most economical way.
16. A better way to end this.

H'ween Parade

Birminghamites with a sure nerves and easily palpitated hearts are cautioned about traveling in the Tully school area between the hours of 6:30 and 8:30 on Thursday evening.

These are the witching hours when pint-sized ghouls, diminutive men from outer space and wee broom-mounted horrors will gather to mix a few cauldrons of fun, pseudo-fear and fantasy at the second annual Halloween Night parade to be sponsored by the Tully Parent-Teachers association.

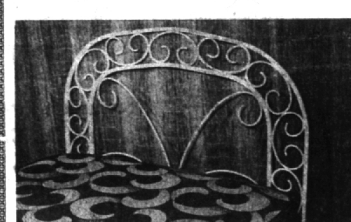

THINGS WILL GET OFF to a shrieking start at 6:30 p.m. when the spirits assemble on Lincoln at Taunton. They will be grouped by classes, and then by rooms with two fathers accompanying each room. At 7 p.m. the parade will start and proceed west on Lincoln to Tully and then into the school's service drive.

More than 100 prizes will be awarded for most beautiful, original or gruesome costumes in each room. Contrary to public opinion, ghosts and goblins have innards and must eat, so cider and doughnuts will be available to insure a successful climax to this spooky Halloween affair.
