

Students Attend Science Institute Open House

CRANBROOK — Last Monday night Cranbrook Institute of Science held its annual open house for new students at Cranbrook and Kingswood schools, to introduce them to the wonders of the natural history museum, the planetarium and the mineral collection. Volunteer workers from the Birmingham Junior League who acted as hostesses to the 180 young people included Mrs. John Kerr, chairman of the volunteer group, and her husband, Mrs. Robert Williams, whose husband also helped, Miss Susan Flint and Miss Barbara Hedrick.

Volunteer workers from the Junior League and the Birmingham AAUW now number 20. Three mornings a week they have been meeting at the Institute for a training course given by staff members to familiarize them with the Institute, its facilities and programs.

Second Three of a Kind

Newly enrolled in Quarton school this fall are the Muellenhagen triplets, shown as they arrive for fifth grade classes there. From left are Nancy, Hugh and Shirley, who celebrated their tenth birthday Saturday. The charming and poised young trio moved from Detroit to 335 Waddington road, Birmingham last June. They report they like Birmingham. One reason, they say, is because "the teachers are so nice." Their parents are the Hugh Muellenhagens. Another set of triplets, children of the Vincent F. Johnsons of Halsary road, enrolled at Walnut lake school this year. Recent publication of their picture in The Birmingham Eccentric brought to light reports of the second trio.

281 Enrolled, 10 Join Faculty Of Kingswood

CRANBROOK — Ten new faculty members have joined the teaching staff at Kingswood School (Cranbrook) for the coming academic year, announced headmistress Marion Goodale. Classes began Tuesday with a record enrollment of 281 students. Augmenting the history department is Wellesley graduate Nell Fisher from Bradford, Pa., and from Van Buren, Maine is Joyce Denning, a graduate of Tufts college and Duke university. New teacher of French and Latin is Mrs. Margaret Hoffman, who has studied both in this country and abroad, taught at the University of Kansas, and is now completing work toward a PhD. Julia Koesterling from St. Louis will instruct speech and drama; Sue Martin, a Kingswood and University of Michigan graduate, will take over study hall.

High Life by Tom Manhard

"Behop a do doo . . . Hey! Betty! Where are you?"

Teachers and students at Southfield are doing all they can these days to make Maria (captioned) feel at ease. Maria, who speaks only Italian, reads and writes a little English. This is Maria's term in an American school; it won't be long before the students have her speaking for herself.

Betsy Svalya is back from her exchange trip to Germany. She was a little late registering, and is working hard now to catch up on the two week's assignments she missed. Betsy had a wonderful trip and visit with a family in Ulm, Germany. She spent five days in a camp school, went hiking in the Alps, and helped her German girl friends with their English lessons.

According to Trillis Jacks of the health education department, Southfield will have a new organization this fall devoted to synchronized swimming, with a spectacular water carnival as a future aim. The senior class held its first meeting of the year yesterday. Although graduation seems a long way off, they had before them the scheduling of class pictures, discussion of the class trip and the election of a candidate for homecoming queen.

There's a student council meeting today. All committees will make their reports and the big business of homecoming events and the dance to follow the game must be planned.

A pep rally will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. before the first game of the season with Royal Oak Kimball high. Also, Southfield will compete tomorrow in its first cross country meet of the season, with Bedford at 3:30 p.m.

The sophomore class will hold its first meeting of the season Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Sports Program For Girls Told At GAA Event

Welcoming old and future members, GAA conducted its first open house of the year in the Birmingham high school gymnasium last week.

At the business meeting, Pamela Parkins, GAA president, introduced the coming program of sports and activities. Janet Hershberger, vice president, explained requirements for joining the club and earning letters.

Other officers include Helen Cudini, secretary; Nancy Stewart, treasurer; Nancy Regen, public relations; and Gail Norris, historian. Officers, with club advisers Miss Sally Reid, Miss Judy Stevenson, and Miss Barbara Stephenson, principal activities will attend an Eastern Michigan league GAA retreat today and tomorrow at Port Huron, Michigan. Plans for the retreat designed for exchange of ideas for bettering GAA programs. At the retreat the girls will participate in sports, entertain, eat and share cabins.

New chairman of Kingswood's history department is Mrs. William White of Franklin. After graduating from Mt. Holyoke, and receiving a masters degree from Columbia, Mrs. White taught at the University of Chicago where she earned a PhD. She has since taught at McGill University in Montreal and Wayne state university in Detroit.

THE MATHEMATICS department has three new instructors: Anne Irmen from Maumee, O., and part time assistants Mrs. Maurice Garabrant of Bloomfield Hills, and Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson from Birmingham.
