

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

IF YOU WORK IN DETROIT, the day may come when you will be paying a city income tax even if you don't live there. To which City Commissioner Florence Willett expressed a sentiment which might be summed up by the phrase, "Not that!" At a recent commission meeting, our pretty lady official suggested that the city of Birmingham express its disapproval of the plan to the Michigan Municipal League, which is endorsing it. Commissioner Charles G. Renfrew, who volunteered that he is a member of the league committee which reported the bill favorably. Said Renfrew, "Big cities have reached the end of the road in financing through property taxes alone." Renfrew explained the plan by which big city would tax the incomes of people working within their limits, then share the revenues with the resident city. Missed limits, then share the revenues with the resident city. Missed limits, then share the revenues with the resident city. Missed limits, then share the revenues with the resident city. Missed limits, then share the revenues with the resident city.

ALL DRESSED UP, with an elegant, formal luncheon to go to, Alice O. Williams recently quite a let-down. Reason: several other members of the Burlingame family had left the house first, driving the family cars. So the Birmingham Eccentric columnist pulled up to the car in the only thing left that moved—a red truck. Taxi, lady!

HE'S BEEN THE MAYOR of Birmingham since last September, but it looks like His Honor William E. Roberts hasn't really lived. Said he with a grin to city commissioners recently, "They're opening parking lots all over the place, and I haven't cut a single ribbon!"

OF THE TEN South Oakland cities involved in the proposed multi-million-dollar 12 Towns relief drains, Birmingham is the only one who has built up a kitty to apply on its share. Since 1953, the city has obtained $123,243.53 from winter tax bills through a city-at-large drain assessment. Tuesday night, the city commission advanced $36,200 as its share of $650,000 in delinquent engineering fees the county has going on the 12 Towns for more than a year. A previous $6,010 was advanced some time ago. Litigation by several townships is holding up the interceptor's construction.

A STAUNCH GOP friend told this Wanderer yesterday that the reason Gov. Williams was so successful in his recent Wisconsin tour during that state's recent senatorial campaign is that the Dairy State is very fond of cheese... any kind.

L.T. COL. CHARLES E. PORTEOUS of Birmingham was one of four new recruits initiated into the Fort Benning camp of the Heroes of '76 recently. Qualifications for membership in the organization are that an individual be a commissioned officer in any branch of the armed services, either active or retired, and be a distinguished Mason and Sojourner.

WORST SPOTS on the west side Woodward sidewalk will be patched, Birmingham City Manager L. R. Gare promised this week. He told City Commissioner Florence Willett that what is holding up repairs is the problem of what to do with the double curb in the first blocks north and south of Maple. "We hope to have a plausible answer in a few weeks," Gare said. Commissioners this week approved a $15,042.20 sidewalk repair contract to low bidder J. J. Barney of Detroit. Work will be concentrated in the Woodward-Oak-Willets area.

IF YOU'RE YOUNG and looking for a career with opportunities, better look into the recreation field. Trained recreation personnel are hard to find, says Birmingham Recreation Director Robert E. Girardin. And in case you know a man or woman with a college major or minor in this field, tell him (or her) Birmingham needs him (or her) as a supervisor, and to get in touch with Girardin. To quote Girardin: "This person will help supervise the vastly expanded recreation program offered Birmingham residents, plus help the director initiate new activities which are in demand. The supervisor would assist in programming the ice rink, along with other winter activities. The summer program would be aided greatly by the presence of a qualified recreation supervisor."

"I shudder every time it rains," Dick Featherstone, Birmingham school board aide, said Wednesday. He was referring to the yet uncompleted sewers at Valley Woods and Harlan schools and the fact every time it rains, work is slowed up more and more. The job, "a miserable job," Dick calls it, of crossing the Grand Trunk railroad tracks is also slowing up the Harlan job. That one will probably be finished about Sept. 15th, Dick reports. The Valley Woods sewer, which he said just didn't get started early enough, should be done in about a week. In the meantime, waste is pumped once a day from the two schools' storage tanks into trucks to be carted off.

Breedlove Elected A Reichhold VP

Charles B. Breedlove, general manager of Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. in Detroit, has been elected a vice president of the company. Henry H. Reichhold, president, announced. Breedlove, who joined Reichhold's Detroit laboratory in 1942, is a member of the executive committee of the Detroit paint association. He became a sales representative of RCI in 1947, district sales manager in 1950, regional manager three years later and has headed the Detroit plant since 1955.

Assault Charge Listed Incorrectly

In a story published in the Aug. 22 issue of The Birmingham Eccentric, Richard W. Ramm, 29, of Livonia, was erroneously listed as being charged with assault and battery on a complaint brought by a 16-year-old maid in a local home. The account should have stated that the assault and battery charge had been made against Edgar Lee Wampler, 55, of 1873 in Evansville, Ind. The Eccentric regrets this error.

Driver Arraigned In Traffic Death

When arraigned Friday before Oakland county circuit court Judge H. Russell Holland, Julius DiGrazia, 31, of Royal Oak, stood mute to charges of negligent homicide. A plea of not guilty was entered by the court, and no date was set for trial. DiGrazia was charged after the July traffic death of Howard C. Holah, 73, of 280 Euclid.

Pleads Guilty To Check Charge

A Grosse Pointe Farms man pleaded guilty Friday to charges that he issued a check without cash. The charge was filed after he cashed two checks in Birmingham recently. The defendant, 26, was arraigned before Judge H. Russell Holland in Oakland county circuit court. He will be sentenced Monday.

$5,293 for Sewer

TROY — City fathers agreed to advance $5,293 to the Oakland county board for advanced engineering on the Evergreen Interceptor sewer project. This money will be refunded when the sewer bonds are sold.

Set Sub. Regulations

TROY — Subdivision regulations, which spell out requirements as to what must be included in preliminary plat maps, sewer, roads, lots and topographical maps, was approved by city commission Tuesday.

LET'S BE SERIOUS ABOUT MUSIC

WE CAN HELP YOU select a basic classical library, which, as you become more familiar with it, will open the doors to years of genuine pleasure and relaxation.
AS IT IS with so many of the goods in life, many of us miss a great deal of pleasure through not getting the opportunity of hearing enough "classical" music to really enjoy it.
TODAY, A BASIC LIBRARY of the world's greatest music is available on fine, beautifully done, hi-fidelity records. All this is possible at the lowest price ever, at less than fifty dollars for your initial selections.
AND AFTER PLAYING these a few times, you begin to "hear" the beauty that has enabled this great music to endure. The mind and the ear grow on what they feed; just as you get to enjoy so many good foods by cultivating a taste for them.
AND, OF COURSE, your children, through informal exposure, will grow up without the unconscious barrier to "long hair" music so many of our generation have developed.
