Take your hands . . .

out of your pockets, West-wood councilmen. It's safe. Why? Turn to page 1-E, col-umn 2.

Riding the air waves . . .

can be mighty bumpy. Just ask Jim Wood, Westwood resident who spins yarns about radio and TV on page 1-E, column 4.

The political weather . . .

in Lathrup is as changeable as March. Lamb-like, Lathrup voters gave their councilmen a vote of confidence Monday. Tuesday they turned into lions and roared. Turn to page 1-E, columns 7 and 8.

The bug has bitten . . .

It didn't take much more than a day or two of warm weather to start the land-slide of golf-course bound area residents. See page 6-E.

A new, modern church . . .

will soon be built in Bloom-field Hills, if plans work out for members of the Unitar-ian church of Birmingham. The congregation hopes to begin construction this fall on the structure revealed on page 6-B.

Study 4 Requests Under New Zone

Everytime you look at the new mural at Harlan ele-nentary school, you see something new and interesting, served fourth grader Jim Yates, 10, of 2825 Bolingbroke, loomfield township, as he stopped to study the painting last week. C. Allen Harlan, for whom the new school on North Adams road was named, commissioned artist Marvin Beerbohm to create the mural for the school's lobby. The colorful presentation of a child's world is painted on Belgian linen canvas five feet high, 24 feet long. Birmingham school system has ordered drapery and furniture to beautify the area, and protective plantings under the mural.
