

6 Parochial Schools Serve B'ham Area

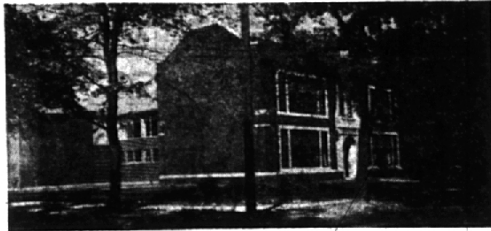

Educational needs of several thousand school children are served by the six parochial schools which serve the Birmingham and Bloomfield areas.

Holy Name and St. Columban primarily serve the Birmingham community, while Our Lady Queen of Martyrs serves the Westwood area.

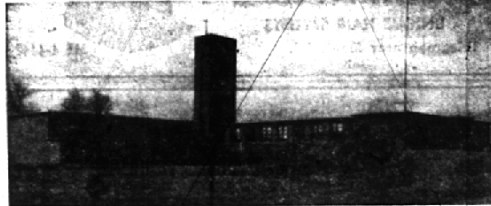

In Bloomfield Hills, St. Hugo's serves the school needs. St. Bede's in the Lathrup Village-Southfield area provides classes for youngsters there.

St. Columban is rushing final construction so it can open for classes this fall.

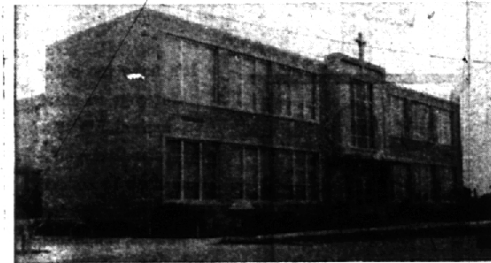

A sixth parochial school, which opened its doors to classes several years ago, is Our Shepherd Lutheran on 14 Mile at Melton, Birmingham.

New Order In Home Aids Transition

The transition from summer vacation time to autumn school days will be much less frantic if Mother calls the class to order at home.

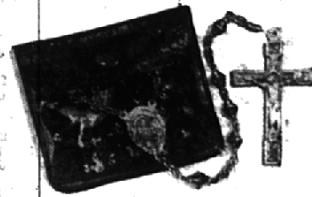

One of the first steps in re-scheduling life to fit school routines is to expedite remodeling plans. For example, plans to end maintenance problems in bathrooms and kitchen should be executed promptly.

By creating a new order at home you can rescue school-bound children from vacation induced languor and stimulate them to mental exercise. Environment affects morale, and home is the most familiar surrounding. Other assignments include:

1. TIMEPIECES. Install clocks with large faces in strategic locations. This will forestall lingering over ablutions, bedlam at breakfast and demerits for tardiness.
2. Bathroom supplies. Make sure the medicine cabinet is stocked with duplicates to prevent losing time searching for misplaced toothpaste or hair tonic.
3. Kitchen utensils. Check the array of appliances and utensils. If you're missing an egg poacher or cereal cooker, make haste to fill the gaps and avoid slowing up breakfast.
4. After-school snacks. Nip slavery to the kitchen by training hungry scholars to confine their banquets to one end of the easy-cleaning kitchen counter. Spot a garbage container near by.
5. Afternoon roundups. Likewise when the family's popularity kid rathers friends for a television visit, direct the herd to a room with a floor that won't show hoof-prints.
