

U-M Geographers Get Surprises in Fan Mail

Where's the best place to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan?

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

could go to practice mountain-climbing in Michigan.

"That's difficult to say," says University of Michigan geographer Charles M. Davis (Ph.D.), "because there aren't any mountains, as such, in glaciated areas such as Michigan."

Nevertheless, Davis, chairman of the U-M Department of Geography, and his colleagues are asked questions like this daily.

"It's a part of our job as professors to answer these questions but sometimes it can be difficult," he says.

In this case a young man wanted to know where he and his friends

The construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway created a 100-square-mile artificial lake in northern New York and southern Ontario.

Stan Musial, now a member of baseball's 3,000-hit club, made his first major league hit off Jim Tobin of the Boston Braves, Sept. 17, 1941, in St. Louis.

La Belles

FOR BOOKS

187 W. Maple
Birmingham

herb ring

DISTINCTIVE JEWELRY

Exquisitely styled, carefully crafted jewelry reflects their personality.

... there's still time to have your jewelry designed in our studio ... in time for Christmas in the price range you specify.

286 brown street, birmingham
mi 4-5206

There Is Still TIME

To have a custom screen installed on your fireplace before Christmas!

SEE OUR COMPLETE SELECTION

Fireplace Accessories
Bellows.....	from $6.50
Flame Crystals.....	from 1.00
Long Matches.....	from 1.49
Firelighters.....	from 4.25
Hearth Brooms.....	from 2.98
Log Holders.....	from 10.95

Custom Made Signs
Order now for delivery by Christmas from $9.75 complete with name

Genuine Italian Tree Lights
(Indoor or out) 35 Bulbs to string set $6.49

SPECIAL BUY

H.O. Train Set
Engine, flat car, box car, caboose and track.
LOWEST PRICE ANYWHERE! $9.98

FREE GIFT WRAPPING!
FREE DELIVERY!

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL CHRISTMAS

McBRIDE HARDWARE CO.

154 S. Woodward MI 4-3010

Charge Accounts • Layaway

Reunited after 14 Years

Mrs. Harriet Schlotbom of Monrovia, Calif., recently had a surprise reunion with her brother, Richard Pleak (right), 1223 Eton road, Birmingham, on the NBC-TV show, "It Could Be You." Mrs. Schlotbom had not seen her brother for more than 14 years. The show had him flown to Hollywood from Birmingham for the reunion which was seen during a recent telecast. Bill Leyden, host of the show is shown at the left.

hit scoring gifts for men

slimming trimming

LORD JEFF cardigan

MANSMOOTH
Needs no ironing—Wrinkle free.

$5.00

DAKS

Cut long and low in front. Your choice of colors.

from $13.95

The British Byford 98 Wool Sack

Shrink resistant in 3 x 6 rib style. $150

British trousers with beltless adjustable waistband. $29.95

Dickinson's

Wabok Building Birmingham Seginaw at Lawrence Pontiac

THE FRIENDLY STORE THAT SAVES YOU MORE!

No. 1

MAINE

All Purpose

Potatoes

39¢
10 lb. bag

Crisp Golden

CELERY HEARTS

(Bunch of three) 19¢ bunch

Cello Pkg.

TOMATOES

21¢ box

Lge. Florida White

Grapefruit

4 for 29¢

Campbell's 46 oz.

TOMATO JUICE

29¢

Vlasic 7 1/2 oz.

STUFFED OLIVES

35¢

TIDE CHEER

29¢

Mott's 15 oz.

APPLE SAUCE

2/29¢

Bird's Eye 10 oz.

PEAS

2/35¢

French Style 9 oz.

GREEN BEANS

2/43¢

Gold Medal 5 lb.

FLOUR

49¢

Cane 5 lb.

SUGAR

49¢

EXTRA LEAN RIB CUT

PORK LOIN ROAST

39¢ lb.

6 lb. Armour Star

CANNED HAM

$6.10 each

Fresh Farm Dressed

Fryers

31¢ lb.

Choice Leg

O'Lamb

69¢ lb.

Hormel 15 1/2 oz.

CHILI

without beans 45¢

Premier Old Fashioned No. 2 1/2 Can

PEACH HALVES

41¢

Johnson

GLO COAT

Pint 49¢

Demmings

RED SALMON

1 lb. 83¢

154 HUNTER AT MAPLE

Open every evening except Saturday
Sunday Hours: 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

PEABODY'S SUPER MARKET

PHONE: MI 4-5222

Free Parking, Front and Rear of Store