

Northbrook Plans Holiday Performances

SOUTHFIELD—Northbrook school students will present two Christmas performances this year for parents and friends.

Fifth, sixth and seventh graders will perform at 8 p.m. Dec. 16 in the multi-purpose room.

Grades one-four are practicing the operetta, "The Shoemaker and the Elves," scheduled at 2 p.m. Dec. 18.

MRS. Jolene Skeith, vocal music teacher, is in charge of both programs.

Instrumental music teachers, Randy Nelson and Frank Lane, are preparing string and wind instrumental students for their role in "The Night Before Christmas."

The Christmas story narration will be by Don Miller.

THE operetta cast for Dec. 18 includes Jeff Coe, Kathy Adams, Heather Pierce, Colla Leman and Linda Cleland as elves.

Doug Sprinkle will be the shoemaker and Sandra Pingel will portray his wife. Karen Heath is the story teller.

All scenery for both performances is under the direction of Earl Smith, art instructor.

NEWS AND VIEWS

OFF THE RECORD

Students of jazz are smiling these days over what's happening. Jazz is finding its way into the popular record field.

For instance, Cozy Cole, who has hit pay dirt with "Topsy," is actually one of the great jazz drummers, rated on a par with Gene Krupa. "Sing, Sing, Sing" by Bertie Love, which is selling well now, was an old Krupa hit of the 40's.

Boots Brown, who's had a couple of moderate sellers, is really Shorty Rogers, a jazz leader on the Decca label.

Possibly the best example of jazz influence is Jonah Jones. Jonah and his quartet have scored big with their "muted jazz." Joe Curtain, ride in a flower laden gondola around the floating gardens of Xochimilco, and watch a famous bull fight.

On March 30, the group will send its way to the old world city of Taxco. There they will stay at the Hotel Victoria and visit the quaint shops along the cobblestone streets. Enroute they tour the resort city of Cuernavaca.

Then for three glorious days, they will live at the Hotel Caletita, situated on the morning beach at Acapulco.

Individual pictures of all ninth graders for the new yearbook. The Derby Cycle, are being taken on the gym stage. Seventh and eighth grade pictures will be taken by homecoming. Mrs. Hickey and Mr. Keller are sponsoring the yearbook.
