Cranbrook Corridor
By TOM RUTH
Cranbrook's 30th annual Christmas pageant was presented last Tuesday night in the dining hall to the students and the board of directors.
The pageant is patterned after the old medieval English pageant given on Christmas day with the help of the local boys and girls. The pageant is a dramatic play in which Cranbrook's glee club did all the singing, with the assistance of the general student body in certain numbers.
The pageant began at 5:30 in the page hall common room. There, where all had assembled, the better of Frank, ran in and invited all those present to come to the great feast of his line were the ones that were used by the carols and ate hors d'oeuvres and French cookies.

Ingredients for a highly successful party? Southfield's pep club, a group of 100 students, were wrapped and the bills at Rouge Park. The club, a ten degrees and awarded with more.
The frigid weather didn't stop the party. The students, Judy Dean, Gary Andrews, Ronnie Lewis, Bruce Pierce, Joyce Jackson, Tom Pitts, Linda Ward, Kay Galletto, Nancy Kindersbacher, Judy MacLachlan, Judy Shumay, Jack Ortolini, both friend of Judy Kiehl.
Hot pins warmed the group when they had all the tobogganing they wanted.

Interested spectators in a senior English class recently saw an ugly little shrunken head hung on the blackboard. The students knew it was there, but the instructor missed it or he might have had some pointed remarks to make.
Jay reporters John Coup and Mary Lee Bruner reported Southfield at the monthly Inter-Lakes press conference at Berkley last week.
Highlighting the meeting was a talk on "Journalism as a Profession" by William Kroger, Kroger is Detroit correspondent for "Business Week" magazine.
Refreshments and exchange of ideas for newspaper setup among the five pre-ace Inter-Lakes schools rounded out the meeting.
Awards for outstanding academic achievement and perfect attendance (57-58 school year) were given out at the luncheon assembly, second hour yesterday.

Twelve new classrooms will be available to Southfield students following the Christmas holidays, Principal Robert Hall said this week.
Only five more areas — Physics, chemistry, reading, choir and band rooms, and the counseling center — remain to be completed in the new addition along with the 910-seat auditorium. All will be completed during the second semester.

Christmas vacation for Southfield high students will begin Wednesday, Dec. 23, at 3 p.m. Classes will resume Monday, January 5, at 8 a.m.
The frontier room of Guffin's House of Beef, Farmington will be the setting for the annual faculty Christmas dinner, Dec. 18. Each instructor has been invited bringing mittens to decorate a Goodfellow "mittens tree."

Starting off Christmas week in traditional style will be the music department Christmas concert next Monday. It is one of the nicest musical ways to get into a true Christmas spirit. Take the evening off and marvel at the music our young people create. The high school gym, 8 p.m., no admission charge.

old factors as they did at the same time. All of the students and the whole body moved to their dining hall where the pageant took place.
The pageant took place during the whole meal and was followed by the numbers play directed by Mr. Robert Ueblin. This play, performed by selected members of the seventh grade, shows the triumph of good over evil as St. George slayed the Dragon; the numbers play is also medieval in origin. The ceremonies for this evening ended with the headmaster's message to the student body.
It ended at this point and saw all the students returning to their rooms with thoughts of the Christmas vacation which began the next morning, last Wednesday.
Last Saturday, December 13, the Kingswood-Cranbrook Church Cabinet sponsored its annual Christmas Party for a few of the mentally retarded children in the area.
The party is held at each school every other year and this year was held at Kingswood. Various students at both schools had been making presents of model airplanes and the like for gifts at the party during the past two weeks. The presents were given after the singing which always accompanies this party.
Over the years this party has given immense satisfaction to those concerned with it. Many times the children have relaxed in the soft, atmosphere and joined in the singing, something that many never had done before. Those who attended the party this year, and in past, from both schools have done so in order to see just what this project is accomplishing; apparently it is doing much.
