Bloomfield Village

A tea honoring over 100 girls and their mothers was Sunday afternoon at the home of Karl McCurry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCurry of Yarmouth road. The girls were pledged to Tara, the girls club of Birmingham high school. They made all of their own tea sandwiches and cookies and organized the affair themselves.

Featured attraction of the party was a large cake bearing a tiara crown, copied after the club's pin. Barbara Falconer started the pouring.

Program of the evening at Bloomfield Village school PTA Monday evening was a panel discussion on "Language Arts" presented by a panel consisting of the teacher from each grade of the school, beginning with kindergarten. Moderator of the panel was Marden Wilson, principal. Each teacher gave language arts procedure for her grade. They showed progress and necessary drill and stress points from infancy up on the child may more efficiently participate in later social situations.
