People whose thoughts are above doing malicious acts toward others, people who (though with some faults of their own) would not knowingly injure or steal from others such good people find it impossible to understand why evil and wickedness exist in human society. Yet mankind's chief mission is to supplant wickedness with good.

The Birmingham Eccentric

BIRMINGHAM, MICHIGAN — Thursday, January 2, 1958

SECTION B

TYPICAL OF WHAT University of Michigan alums will be doing the next few weeks is Mrs. S. F. Leahy informing U of M students of the Jan. 22 Telephone Bridge. Receiving the call is Janie Collister and eagerly awaiting the news are (from left) Myrna Moxley, Liz Thomson and Sue Burkhart, all scholarship students.

Alumnae Association's Telephone Bridge To Benefit U of M Scholarship Students

Activity begins this week in preparation for the scholarship fund-raising project of the Birmingham Alumnae Association of the University of Michigan. The project, a telephone bridge party, scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 22, is being arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. Edwin O. George, the group's ways and means chairman.

Alumnae president, Mrs. R. E. Klintworth, states that funds raised through the afternoon and evening bridge parties will be applied to a scholarship fund which gives financial assistance to University of Michigan students.

Five students are being helped by the fund, which is administered by Mrs. S. F. Leahy. Jane Collister, 1083 Northlawn, has been awarded an alumnae scholarship for the second year. A graduate of Birmingham high school, she is in the school of nursing at the university.

Sue Burkhart, 984 Oakland, and Elizabeth Thomson, 1469 Birmingham boulevard, are freshmen in the college of literature science and the arts. Frank Wilson, Jr., of 26510 Scenic drive, Franklin, is studying pre-dentistry.

Myrna Moxely, 1420 Bates, will enter the University in February. Illness prevented her from entering in the fall with the other Birmingham high school scholarship winners.

The scholarships are for one or two years at the university, and are awarded on the basis of leadership, character and academic standing.

With the telephone bridge parties, the alumnae hope to increase their scholarship fund to include other deserving students and to continue their assistance to the present recipients.

Musicale Guest Artist To Be Martin Welton

The Birmingham Musicale announces that the date and place of the January meeting have been changed to Thursday, Jan. 9th, at the Community House at 2 p.m.

The program will feature a new member of the club, Martha Sisney Watson, Sr., soprano, presenting a group of piano solos from the repertoire of Rameau, Scarlatti, Debussy and Prokofieff. In her second appearance, Mrs. Welton will accompany her husband, Arthur R. Welton who will play Sonata for flute and piano by Hindemith.

Dreama Royal, soprano, also recently received into membership of the Musicale, and a resident of Portlace, will be accompanied by Dorothy Phelps, well known music teacher and accompanist. Mrs. Royal's program is chosen from the works of Handel, Mozart, Debussy and Samuel Barber.

A few of the numbers were included in her recent recital at the Cranbrook Music House which was enthusiastically received.

Mrs. Royal studied at the College of Music of Cincinnati, and has pursued a varied career in concert, operetta, radio, television and symphony orchestra, as well as instructing in West Bloomfield schools.

MR. AND MRS. WELTON, natives of Michigan, are newcomers to Birmingham and have music studios here. They received their music degrees from Michigan State university and Indiana university, and have had extensive experience in solo and duo recitals, as well as having participated in chamber music programs, civic opera productions and symphony orchestras. Mrs. Welton is presently playing solo flute with the Pontiac Symphony.

The program committee is headed by Mrs. Harold Walker and Mrs. James J. Hogan is in charge of the tea following the program. Mrs. Robert D. Lynd is in charge of the table and she will be assisted by Mrs. John Maynard, Mrs. Glenn A. Ryker and Mrs. Francis McGuire. Mrs. James Moon, Mrs. Laurence Thomas, Mrs. I. W. Robertson and Mrs. Maurice Garabrant will pour.

Hostesses are Mrs. Alan Loofburrow, Mrs. Earl Bartholomew and Mrs. John Wright, and in charge of House and Stage are Mrs. William C. Busch and Mrs. Lyle Passmore.

Dr. Kelly To Keynote Clinic Meet

Dr. William Kelly, assistant director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, will be the main speaker at the Annual Dinner Meeting of the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic and its branch clinics in Birmingham and South Oakland County.

The meeting will be at the Northwood Inn at 6:30 p.m., Feb. 6, 1958, and a record attendance of over two hundred is expected.

Plans for the annual dinner were announced by Mrs. Olive Thomas, supervisor of the Birmingham branch clinic at its December board meeting. Other important business on the agenda was the presentation of the 1958-59 budget by Charles Duffy, chairman of the finance committee of the clinic board.

Newlywed William Winchesters Are Sun Valley Honeymooners

Wearing a pearl lustered gown of mousseline de soie, Esther Louise Nevins presented a picture to long remember for her marriage to William Girard Winchester, III, Saturday.

MRS. WILLIAM G. WINCHESTER, III

In dramatic accent, embroidered medallions in magnolia blossom motif frosted the entire front of the gown, and etched a garland across the back. The figure molding bodice was styled with triple rows of the exquisite material forming a gently curved petal decolletage, and the long sleeves were tapered in traditional points over her wrists. The skirt belled from the molded princess waistline and flowed with backswept fullness to a chapel train edged by an embroidered magnolia garland.

A court cap designed from matching blossoms and petals clasped her tiered veil of silk illusion which cascaded to fingertip length. She carried a cascade bouquet of white poinsettia blossoms.

THE CANDLELIGHT ceremony was performed at 2 o'clock in the First Methodist church in Birmingham with the father of the bride, the Rev. L. J. Nevins of Clare, and Dr. A. F. Rankell officiating. The groom is the son of the William G. Winchesters of Asbury Park, Detroit.

The bride's attendants were in bouffant dresses of Christmas red taffeta designed with sabrina necklines and bracelet sleeves. The slender midriffs were defined with pleated folds of the taffeta closing at the back with a bustle bow and flowing panels. Matching bandeaux of iridescent nailletes with circlet halo veils glistened in their hair, and large puffs of dramatic white fox decorated with red poinsettias completed their costumes.

Mary Elizabeth Nevins of Birmingham, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Attending as bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Dougle MacGregor and Nancy Jane Gillard.

JOHN T. HUMPHREYS stood as best man. Assisting as ushers were Robert D. MacGregor, Edmund P. Rushton and Allan M. Warner.

The bride's mother had a white orchid pinned to her gown of blue peau de soie. Mrs. Winchester chose a sheath of powder blue lace and peau de soie trimmed with accents of copenhagen blue. She also wore a white orchid.

Following a reception in the church's fellowship hall, the couple left for a honeymoon in Sun Valley, Idaho. The new Mrs. Winchester chose for her going away ensemble a green and black English tweed coat-suit collared in mink. Her hat and accessories were black and she wore white amazon lilies.

The couple will make their home at 1824 Yosemite, Birmingham, after their return in mid-January.

Father Officiates at Ceremony

Cherry Harris Wed In Holiday Setting

Regal simplicity marked the details of the graceful gown worn by Cherry Mae Harris when she became the bride of Phillip Roy Jacobus Friday.

Daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Glen Harris of Pilgrim road, Rev. Harris officiated at his daughter's ceremony at 4 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. Her brother, Robert G. Harris, presented her for marriage. Phillip's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jacobus of Plymouth.

POINT DE VENISE lace banded the deeply rounded decolletage of the crystal white silk faille gown and the points at the wrists of the long traditionally tapered sleeves. The empress bodice line was traced with self material tied in a bow knot at the back with streamers spreading to the very end of the extremely full skirt which flared in unpressed pleats to a brief train.

Her tiered veil was gathered to a court cap of matching lace and she carried white roses and stephanotis with a holly Christmas accent.

ADDING PAGEANTRY to the background, her attendants were dressed in holly red velvet. Their gowns were styled with bateau necklines, brief shoulder covering sleeves, and demi-length princess skirts. Blending satin molded the slender midriffs closing at the back with a bow and floating panels reaching to the hem. Matching satin bow bandeaux formed their headdresses, and their bouquets were centered with red and white carnations with a holly background.

Janice Adams of Philadelphia was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ruth Ann Gaehner, Mrs. Robert Isaacson, Jane McDaniel and Sarah Colwell.

WINFIELD TRUMBULL served as best man. Ushers were Phillip Smith, Henry Levering, Gerry Prescott, David Van Note, Robert Appleman and Kenneth Jacobus. Lee Harris, brother of the bride was junior usher.

The bride's mother was gowned in a sheath dress of aquamarine peau de soie combined with chantilly. The lace bodice was fashioned with a sabrina neckline outlined with scallop embroidery and the sleeves were bracelet length. In charming accent, the lace also formed an inverted pleat at the back of the straight skirt which tapered to an afternoon length. She wore a small curved hat of pleated silk in matching tone.

THE GROOM'S MOTHER wore a blue faille sheath with contrasting accessories and she pinned a corsage of carnations to her purse.

Mrs. Cherry, the bride's maternal grandmother, wore a gown of lace in damask rose with accessory accents in shades of plum. Mrs. Hugh McLean, the groom's maternal grandmother, was also present from Bloomington, Ill.

A dinner party at Oakland Hills followed the church reception. The newlyweds are honeymooning in Northern Michigan and will make their home in Ann Arbor until June.
