

Most of us have our "ups and downs", our moments of varying degrees of "oh, what's the use?", or its opposite "this is a lovely thrill . . . or achievement", or just an "Isn't this a great day to be alive!" Few of us attain and maintain an evenness of harmony and happiness throughout our days. So we need to shun self-pity.

POLIO STILL A THREAT!

Polio strikes without warning. Epidemics spread quickly. No section of the country is immune because the virus is still widespread. Despite proved efficiency of polio vaccine, eighty million Americans under forty years of age have not completed the full schedule of three doses. Unfortunately, the vaccine cannot wipe out the disease. It simply protects those who receive it. Thus, eighty million Americans still are needlessly susceptible to the dread disease. Don't take chances with your health or that of your loved ones. See your physician! Be immunized now!

Dunstan's to Present Smash Broadway Hit

St. Dunstan's Guild February offering will be "Bus Stop", William Inge's play that was a smash Broadway hit two years ago, and also an outstanding movie. The entire story takes place inside a street corner restaurant in a small Kansas town which also serves as a rest stop for the bus lines.

A sudden March blizzard throws a diverse group of characters together for an evening in the small cafe, and the course of events reveals much of their hopes, ambitions and secrets with some unusual twists that make it such an entertaining and penetrating story, with equal doses of pathos and humor.

THE UNUSUAL group includes an appealing curvaceous blonde, not many years out of the Ozark hills but mighty wise in the ways of the world, played by Mrs. C. D. Scribner.

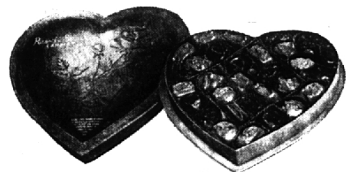

Then there's a strong-minded vigorous cowboy played by John Mrs. Bonnie E. Dougherty, Frank Crim, in pursuit of the blonde, and the cafe proprietress, a divorced woman with a practical view about life, played by Mrs. Richard Sted-Staufford C. Stoddard with sound effects by William Holmes, made-up by Mrs. Wendell Smith, who in a few hours sees a lot of life costumes by Mrs. Martin R. Swift, she didn't know existed.

Then there's the sheriff, quick to take to gun or fist in the name of the law, played by Chuck Del-

THE PRODUCTION is by Mrs. George Shepherd, set design by Mrs. Bonnie E. Dougherty, Frank Crim, in pursuit of the blonde, and the cafe proprietress, a divorced woman with a practical view about life, played by Mrs. Richard Sted-Staufford C. Stoddard with sound effects by William Holmes, made-up by Mrs. Wendell Smith, who in a few hours sees a lot of life costumes by Mrs. Martin R. Swift, she didn't know existed.

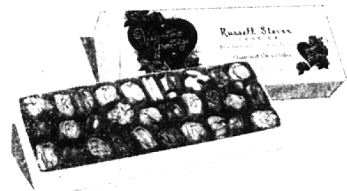

Performances are scheduled for the nights of Feb. 7, 8, 14 and 15 at St. Dunstan's playhouse on Lone Pine road.
