BUSINESS BRIEFS

The Stratford, a four-level, four bedroom colonial at Briar Hill, Farmington and Thirteen Mile roads, won an American Home magazine award for its builders, Patterson-Sharley, Inc., of Southfield.

Farmington Home Wins Award from Magazine

An outstanding home built by Patterson-Sharley, Inc., Southfield, has won a special citation from American Home magazine, as one of the best home values for the money in the state.

The house is featured in the July American Home as one of the three "best houses for the money" in Michigan. The award recognizing it as a home offering the public the most value is part of a program initiated by the magazine in 1957 and continued in 1958 to acquaint home-buyers with the fine homes available at reasonable prices in key building states across the country.

The house itself, located in Farmington township at Farmington and Thirteen Mile roads, was designed for the home-maker with three or more children. There is a useful family room which provides a lounging place where the family may be close by while "moon" in the kitchen, and there is a bathroom room which can accommodate laundry appliances, the family freezer and might also be utilized as, perhaps, a sewing room. Then, there is the touch of luxury in the arrangement of the master bedroom. Here, the busy wife and mother will feel pampered by having her own dressing room, excellent closet space and adjoining bath. The two-car garage has good entry into the kitchen, to facilitate the totting of packages and groceries.
