B'ham Teachers Hear Dr. Conant Defend Schools

Representing the Birmingham education association, local teachers' group, at the national education association's convention from Sunday through Friday of last week were four Birmingham school teachers. The session was held in Cleveland, O.

Delegates were George L. Miller, high school civics teacher who took office as BEA president last month; Ada Bronson, BEA second vice president who teaches at Valley Woods school; Hope Linstruth, Quanton school, and Edward Vanderlian, Derby junior high school. The latter two are BEA committee chairmen.

THEY WERE among 5,000 delegates who heard Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard university, say that no radical changes are necessary to make American schools adequate for tasks confronting them.

Other speakers urged delegates to engage in local politics and to support federal aid to education.

"The states can't finance growing educational needs alone," the delegates were told by Walter S. Heller, economics department chairman at the University of Minnesota.

Play and Plays Set at Will-O-Way

Registrations for the second four-week course of the supervised recreation program at the Will-O-Way apprentice theatre are now being accepted. Classes begin Monday, July 21.

The program, for children up to 13 years, combines recreational activities and professional dramatic training.

Children will attend classes Monday through Thursday, from 9 a.m. to noon each day. Further information may be obtained by calling Celia Merrill Turner at Will-O-Way apprentice theatre, 775 W. Long Lake, Bloomfield Hills.
