Sandy McCorkle, 6, and Her Trumpet

Youngster With a Horn Stars on Television

LATHRUP—Sandra McCorkle, at the tender age of 6, has come a long way in her television career. Since she first started playing the trumpet, Sandy has appeared on "Auntie Dee", "Soupy Sales", and captured second place on the Ted Mack "Original Amateur Hour".

Sandy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Earl McCorkle, 30680 Longcrest, Oakland Hills subdivision, has a natural talent for playing the horn. She has made at least five appearances on the channel 7 Harry Jarkey show and on Aug. 12 Sandy appeared on the Lawrence Welk "Top Times and New Talent" program and was the hit of the show.

Sandy still treasures the 15-year-old trumpet her uncle gave her.

HER UNCLE, JACK Tierney, is Sandra's teacher and manager. Tierney majored in music and physics at Michigan State university. Sandy still treasures the 15-year-old trumpet her uncle gave her.

One of Sandy's biggest triumphs so far was her appearance on Steve Allen's show Sunday. She was one of the highlights of the show and held her own with the biggest name stars of TV and the movies.

While in California to appear on the Welk show Sandy received advice from others high in music circles. Ben Pollock, whose great grandfather of a generation ago included the late Glenn Miller and other famous names as sidemen, saw a great future for Sandra.

After she sat in with a small combo in Pollock's Hollywood club, he was so impressed that he "used" Sandy a horn player used by the late Big Bodebecke, jazz cornetist who died in 1931.

SANDRA SAT in with the Bob Crosby band during rehearsals prior to his TV show and she also chatted with another star, Harry James.

After her appearance on the Allen show and breaking into the "big time" the horizon looks very bright indeed for Sandra's future.

Campbell

Monday unless new developments turn up, he added.

Brown, out of town on business, could not be reached for comment.

ORIGINALLY the board scheduled its organizational meeting for July 14. Schoenfeld said this was "an oversight, contrary to state law" (which requires the organizational meeting to be held on the first Monday of the month following the election. It was rescheduled after Campbell threatened to appear on the locally-specified date with witnesses to prove there was no meeting.

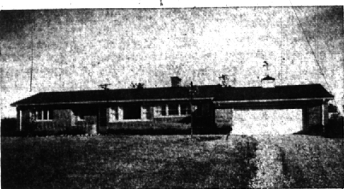

Campbell, who lives at 18441 Glenwood, Lathrup, was a leader of the group that protested the election on a platform pledged to "eliminate expensive frills from school buildings." Self-educated, he is a former mayor of Lathrup.

Huber, executive director of Boys Republic, holds numerous positions in child welfare work and was recently named one of Michigan's outstanding young men by the state junior chamber of commerce. He has earned several degrees including a doctorate from Boston university. Huber lives at 27080 W. 9 Mile.
