

at the CHURCH DOOR

By JULIE CANDLER

Look for an announcement soon from the Unitarian church of Birmingham about a new minister.

That busy congregation, now preparing to begin construction on a church near Woodward and Lone Pine roads, Bloomfield Hills, has had a full schedule all week.

It continues with a reception at Birmingham Community House tonight at 8 p.m., a potluck supper tomorrow at 6:45 p.m., and a family picnic Saturday at the Vaughan road home of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Graddis at 5 p.m.

The congregation holds services at Upton school, Royal Oak, at 10:30 a.m. Sundays.

Did you know that the minister of a Highland Park, Ill. church calls his column in his, the church's newsletter, "Parson to Person"?

Since we like practical people, we practically flipped when we learned of the pragmatic approach to a picnic at Lutheran church of the Redeemer.

They got tired of trying to outsmart the weather man when they

the St. James Episcopal church clergyman.

Dr. Plant has been appointed by the Rt. Rev. Richard Emrich, Bishop of the diocese of Michigan, to serve as administrative executive to the cathedral chapter and administrative assistant to the Bishop.

The new appointee lives at 735 Yarmouth, Birmingham, and is vice president of a Detroit engineering firm on weekdays.

At the site on which their proposed church will be built at W. Maple and Middlebeek roads, members of Lutheran church of the Shepherd-King will gather for outdoor services Sunday at 10:30 a.m. Casual and playclothes will be the order of the day, because the worshippers will go on to Redeemer Lutheran church's grounds in Birmingham for a picnic afterwards.

The Retreating Bus

A busload of joy was snapped by Photographer Maurice H. Smith as the Methodist youth fellowship of First Methodist church embarked on a weekend retreat recently. About 60 young people were accompanied by youth sponsors on the trip to the Methodist camp at Port Huron, Mich. Scenes such as this are repeated frequently this season among Birmingham area churches.
