Beavers Return From Tour of West Indies

Home again with memories to last a lifetime are the Harold Beavers of North Adams road. They began a tour of the British West Indies on Jan. 2 which lasted five glorious weeks. Miami, Fla., was the first stop on their journey before flying on to Jamaica, where they spent their first 10 days.

The picturesque Shaw Park hotel was their headquarters during their stay.

On one of their many tours they experienced the thrill of downing the fast moving Rio Grande river on a bamboo raft, manned by a polo boy. The four mile scenic trip brought them into Port Antonio.

These rafters are designed to carry only two persons and the roller coaster over the rapids. Many hours were spent on the white sand beaches watching the natives loading the banana boats at Port Antonio. It was another colorful sight.

The next five days were spent in Haiti where they vacationed at the Port-au-Prince. A trip on horseback 3,000 feet up the narrow paths to the "Citadel" in the mountains will long be remembered by the Beavers.

During their visit in Ciudad Trujillo in the Dominican Republic there was much excitement at the Intercontinental Ambassador hotel where they stayed. Staying there was Juan Peron, former president of Argentina. Armed guards with muskets were on watch night and day.

Another highlight of the trip was their stay at the Canal Bay plantation in St. John in the Virgin Islands. Occupying a cottage near theirs at the plantation were the Lawrence Rockefeller and a party of friends. San Juan, Puerto Rico was another three-day stop before flying home to the snow and ice that awaited them.

The Clarence Bundy and the Fred Pantillon of Rouge Crele have just returned home from a two-week trip to Florida. The wives drove down a week ahead of their husbands and made stops along the way to visit relatives.

They were held up in Huntsville, Ala. for two days in the states worst snow storm. In Zephyr Hills, Fla. they visited Mrs. Elizabeth Cram, an aunt of Mrs. Pantillon before going on to St. Petersburg.

In Boynton Beach they visited the Bundy's relatives, the George Scotts, and also joined their husbands there for a week.

Deep sea fishing, reef fishing, viewing points of interest and touring the night spots were a few of the many things the two couples enjoyed.

It was quite a "surprise" for Mrs. William Franks of Beach road to get her husband out of the basement workshop and into sport clothes without him knowing anything unusual was going on.

Meanwhile friends gathered outside the Beach road home for a surprise birthday party in honor of Franks. After the initial surprise was over the guests all settled down for cocktails and a buffet supper.

Present were the Harold Barnes.

Tropical Holiday Theme for Dance

The Suburban club, a group of 55 couples from the Birmingham area, held its monthly dinner-dance Saturday at Lakeside Country Club.

Committee for the evening were the Robert Beckness, chairman, the Fred Hilligiers, the David Turner and the Elmer Nelsons.

Dinner will be catered professionally at the Hardi-Gras and tickets must be purchased ahead of time. The meal will be served buffet style and you can sneak back for seconds.

Mrs. Walter Kingscott is in charge of the handicraft where workers are needed.

"Come with ideas" was the theme of the coffee hosted by Mrs. Charles Bethel of Meadowlane drive, for mothers of the afternoon kindergarten class of Harlan school on Tuesday evening, March 4.

The homeroom mothers, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Mary Hagerman and Mrs. Bethel, plan to use the ideas for the "spook house" project their class will have at the Harlan.
