MICHIGAN BELL

TELEPHONE lines

WINTER always reminds us of the famous picture called "Spirit of Service," showing a telephone line-man walking on snowshoes through a blizzard. It may come as a surprise to the folks who mostly see our men riding by in heated cab trucks, but in many Michigan areas our men still must use snowshoes occasionally to reach lines in open country. And those fellows still get a kick out of it because they know they're making it possible for you to phone anyone, any place, any time.

IF HE COULD LIVE THAT LONG, a fellow could expect to work in Michigan Bell's plant department—building lines, installing and repairing phones, and so on—for about 900 years without an injury that would keep him off his job. That's just another way of saying our company's Safety Report for 1957 shows that only 1 fell out of 900 didn't show up for work because of an accident. Of course, we'd rather have a record of none out of 900 . . . that's our goal. And that's why our Safety Supervisors keep reminding: "make sure the pole's safe before you climb it"; "lift with your legs, not your backs"; "get out of your car on the sidewalk side—not on the side where you'll step into traffic."

HAVE YOU NOTICED

How much steeper those stairs get when you're tired? How many miles do you travel each year up and down stairs—or from one end of the house to the other—to answer the phone? Nowadays this is an unnecessary waste of energy and time. You can have an additional phone anywhere in your home for about one dollar a month. Last year Michigan Bell installed 66,000 telephones in homes which already had at least one phone. Join the families who have discovered how much pleasanter life is with extension phones. To order yours just call our Business Office.

How do you tell a drunk?

The man was acting strangely. You know what people thought. But the neighborhood pharmacist had a hunch, took a close look, gave the man sugar. Then he called a physician who found the man was in insulin shock. Too much insulin, not liquor. Without prompt treatment, he might have died. This story illustrates the potency of modern drugs. Before using powerful drugs you should see a physician and then follow directions to the letter when taking them.
