

3rd Generation to Act At Players' Playhouse

What's in a name? Obviously a great deal, as the audience will see when the curtain rises at 9 p.m. on the Birmingham Village Players' forthcoming play, "Speaking of Murder" tomorrow and Saturday, March 28 and 29, at the Chestnut street playhouse.

To ensure to take a certain role of tender years, are Elys and Steve Davely, Jamie Parsons and Woody Galloway, who alternate in the role of the Ashton children on the two nights of the presentation. The art of make-up is science, what of a heritage, for these youngsters are third generation actors at the Village Players. Steve and Elys Davely, whose parents are the G. G. Thomsen family, are grandchildren of the George Davely, a charter member of the Players, now living in Florida.

Jamie Parsons, son of the Mrs. Horton (Pepper) Allen, who makes visits to the Ashton household for her weekly remuneration, a payment that seals her lip on a secret that is a stone chiller. Mrs. Carl (Barbara) Hagan is Annabelle, whose dutiful and self-effacing manner toward Charlie Ashton (Tom Allen) only makes her lethal bit of business all the more sinister. Mrs. John (Pat) Gilray is the lovely Connie Ashton, whose sense of forbidding threatens her happiness as a new bride.

BOSSING UP on her part for the past week is Seattle, who makes her stage debut in the role of "Jill," the Ashton's dog. When not doing her flashlight caper, Mrs. Horton (Pepper) Allen plays the pining Mrs. Wainworth, who makes visits to the Ashton household for her weekly remuneration, a payment that seals her lip on a secret that is a stone chiller. Mrs. Carl (Barbara) Hagan is Annabelle, whose dutiful and self-effacing manner toward Charlie Ashton (Tom Allen) only makes her lethal bit of business all the more sinister. Mrs. John (Pat) Gilray is the lovely Connie Ashton, whose sense of forbidding threatens her happiness as a new bride.

Birmingham Students, Busy-Bees on Campus

Local crowds throughout the United States are busy these days pledging sororities, serving as officers, making plans for spring vacation, etc.

Nancy Robertson and Patricia Sheldon, student at Stephens college, have been initiated into Alpha Pi Epsilon, national honorary sorority society. They were chosen for membership on the basis of superior scholarship and for their personality and interest.

"MANHATTAN MOOD" was the theme of the annual junior prom at Stephens college. Sandra Bennett was dressed as a cigarette girl and was a hostess at the dance. The setting was Manhattan as seen from a New York post house with a stage decorated with garden furniture and palm trees to look like a terrace and garden overlooking the city.

Two residents of the Birmingham area have been pledged to Kappa Alpha Theta sorority at Auburn college. They are Carol Peck, daughter of the V. L. Peck of Maryland; and Gloria Thompson, daughter of the Arthur Thompson of Carlisle.
