

$210 Church to be Viewed At Franklin Church Event

FRANKLIN — Pictured on the programs used at Franklin Community church's colonial dinner last Thursday will be the quaint little building that was the church's first home. It cost $210 when it was built in 1868.

Diners next week will watch with excitement as members present the plaques which will finance the operation of the church's present $250,000 structure.

The 525 members of the church expected at the dinner, will sign their pledge cards after the budget is presented. Pledges of members unable to attend the dinner will have been turned in previously.

AT A LARGE board on which each colony is listed, men will record the results as they come in. Each table will be named for one of the 13 original colonies, which represents a district of the church's area. With Norman Curtis acting as chief of staff, each group of colonies is headed by a governor-general, and individual colonies are guided by governors.

Though Franklin Community church today is Methodist in connection, it has been a community church in program and interest for many years.

THE CHURCH began in 1840, when it was the first Methodist Protestant church in the state. It was after World War I that the Methodist Protestant connection

WHY?

Are Honeymoons Secluded?

In times when men kidnaped brides, it was necessary for the husband to keep his wife in a secret, secluded place, both to prevent her recapture and escape retaliation by the bride's family—until they calmed down and got used to the idea.

The secret departure of newlyweds today is no more than an attempt to avoid embarrassing jokes and pranks, reminiscent of the crude Shivarees of our forefathers, and similar traditions in the spirit of fun, prevalent everywhere.
