for their fifth Eastern Michigan league dual victory.

Maple half-miler Dick Boyd covered the 880 distance in 2:03.8. Port Huron's Mike McDonald won the 100-yard dash in :10.3.

THE THIRD new field mark was set by the Birmingham medley relay team of Bob Stephenson, Lea Danielson, Bob Kulow and Phil Ingraham. Their time was 2:34.5.

Top Birmingham men did not compete in several events. The Maples copped nine of the 13 firsts.

Baron Tracksters Top Four Records

BLOOMFIELD — Four Bloomfield Hills school records fell here May 7 as the Barons copped a triangular victory. The Hills totaled 51½ points to 44½ for West Bloomfield and 41 for Northville.

Barry Armstrong's 4:53 mile, Jim Schultz, :23.1 in the 180-yard lows and the Barons' 1:38.1 880-yard relay clocking broke records. Bill Jordan finished second in the 440 but his :53.8 time also set a new mark. Bloomfield Hills won six first and shared a seventh.

Try Again to Restore Grayling

About 800 3-inch Montana grayling were planted May 7 in Lake Manganese, Keweenaw county.

The fish had been hatched and raised at Wolf lake hatchery. They were flown from the Kalamazoo airport to Houghton, where a station wagon took them to the wilderness lake near Copper Harbor.

The 52-acre lake was poisoned last year to remove conflicting fish life. Water conditions in the lake are similar to native grayling lakes in Montana.

Michigan grayling have been extinct for several decades. The Montana variant is practically identical, however, and this planting is the most recent in a long series of attempts to return the trout-like fish to the state where his gamey fame first developed.

THE YOUNG FISH were transported in sealed polyethelene pouches that had been half filled with water, then puffed up with oxygen. This method of transport has proved its value in recent years, and is a key factor in moving young fish from hatchery ponds to planting sites.

Later this year, probably in June, attempts will be made to beef up the stocking attempt by placing 100,000 eyed grayling eggs in two small streams that feed Manganese Lake.

Apparently concentrating on amorous springtime activities, one of Michigan's released wild turkeys got a bit out of his element recently.

A turkey farmer near Fairview, in Oscoda county, was collecting his tame turkeys for butchering when he noticed a strange male turkey among the flock. A closer check revealed the tom was a banded wild turkey which originally had been released by the conservation department west of Rose City—some 25 miles away.

The bird was turned over to department district game supervisor John Byelich for liberation again in the wild.

A Monroe duck hunter who assaulted a Michigan conservation officer last November while resisting arrest was convicted recently and sentenced to a 45-day jail term. In addition, the man was ordered to pay $250 in fines and court costs and was placed on probattion for two years.

When conservation officer Robert C. Straube attempted to arrest the man for hunting after hours, the hunter struck him with a shotgun and fled. Straube gave chase and made the capture after a struggle, even though the hunter threatened to shoot. Fortunately, the shotgun barrel was clogged with mud when the hunter fell during the chase.

A helicopter survey of Michigan's 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline has been completed by the national parks service.

A three-man team of federal park experts, traveling by helicopter, has been looking for suitable locations for state park installations.

The survey is designed to find desirable land available for public ownership. While federal government probably would not purchase any land, but will make a report to the state—recommending particular sites for acquisition by the state.

The parks service survey is financed by a private donor and no public funds are used.

Similar surveys of the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards have been conducted by the parks service in recent years, also financed by private funds.

TIM BALDWIN

He's Among State's Top Soph Golfers

EAST LANSING—Former Birmingham high golfer Tim Baldwin is tagged by Michigan State links coach Ben Van Alstyne as one of the top sophomores on his 1958 golf team.

The second smallest player on the squad, 5-7, 155 pounds, Baldwin hits the ball well and has shown Van Alstyne much promise.

In the Spartans' season opener against Northwestern, Baldwin shot a creditable 79-36 to defeat his man 3½-½ in State's 18-6 win.

Crane Medley Mark Bettered

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Cranbrook has a record.

A planned assault on the school's medley relay mark succeeded here Tuesday afternoon as the foursome of Tom Noteware, Ben Aurand, Larry DeWitt and Al Butzbaugh racked up a 2.37.5 clocking. None competed in the regular events so they would be "fresh" for the relay.

THEY WEREN'T needed elsewhere. Cranbrook romped over Servite, 90-19, taking 11 firsts.

The old Crane medley record of 2:40.1 was set in 1955.

Cranbrook Bows In Ninth Frame

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Western Reserve handed Cranbrook a 2-0 extra-inning setback here Saturday afternoon in an Interstate Prep loop skirmish.

The visitors tagged Andy Billesdon with the loss in the ninth frame. Billesdon came in after Larry Demerick had hurled eight scoreless innings for the Cranes, fanning nine in the process. Both teams garnered four hits.

Lathrup's Gal Golfers Open

LATHRUP—In spite of the 41-degree weather last Friday morning, more than 50 women teed off for the first round of the Lathrup women's golf league at Glen Oaks.

Among the low scorers were Mrs. A. G. Billesdon and Mrs. Lyle K. Robinson. League members will play one more qualifying round tomorrow before tournament play begins.

Frosh Prospect

Tom Kelly, freshman from Birmingham, is one of the top prospects on this year's Lake Forest college baseball team. Tom, a utility second sacker, is rated high by Coach Wally Lemm and is currently hitting .500 as a pinch-hitter for the Lake Forest, Ill., school.

Clarkston Blanks Bloomfield 9 on 10-Hit Barrage

BLOOMFIELD — Clarkston battered two Bloomfield Hills moundsmen for 10 hits here Monday afternoon and handed the Barons their second straight defeat and third in eight starts, 9-0, in a Wayne-Oakland skirmish.

John Dixon started for Bloomfield and went five innings. Jim Gerhard finished the game.

CLARKSTON'S big inning was the sixth, which produced half the winners' runs.

Dick Gaddis went the route for Clarkston, fanning 15 and allowing just four hits. Leroy Parks had a homer for the visitors on a fourth-inning line drive that bounced past the Bloomfield centerfielder.
