SOCIETY

Flea Market, Auction
 Accent League Fair

The "ohs" and "ahs" and shrieks of delight that currently disturb the quiet dignity of Cranbrook House emanate from a group of Junior League sustainers, unpacking rare treasures donated for their Flea Market and Auction at the Country Fair. Mrs. Richard Teel, chairman, hastens to explain that "Flea Market" has nothing to do with "wild life", but was borrowed from its namesake in Paris, long famous for its collection of bric-a-brac and objet d'arts.

Silver, lamps, china, crystal, furniture, jewelry, pictures, linens, antiques of all kinds will be sold over the counter . . . with the choicest items offered at auction each afternoon at 2.

Donations to date include such prized pieces as an exquisite French inlaid vanity, an authentic Georgian silver tray, a pair of elegant Sevres vases, several beautiful pieces from the Knudson estate, and a chest of drawers from a museum collection. Mr. Du Mouchelle, of the Du Mouchelle Art Galleries of E. Jefferson, a connoisseur of antiques, has offered his services as appraiser and auctioneer.

C. Galland and Mrs. West H. Galland; Mrs. W. Richardson spends most of her time these days in her car or accompanying a pick-up truck collecting donations . . . while Mrs. Benjamin Brewster is busy on the phone staffing the sale. At her typewriter daily, is Mrs. Carl Underhill, typing receipts to mail to donors. Donations are being accepted by Mrs. John W. Richardson for pick-up service or contributions may be left at Cranbrook House, weekday mornings, 9 a.m. to noon.

MRS. PARBURY Schmidt heads the marketing committee, while Mrs. William S. James supervises the items for auction. To produce an authentic French atmosphere, Mrs. John R. MacManus meets often with her committee, which includes Mrs. Walter G. Briggs, Mrs. George Booth, Mrs. Francis

Patricia Bauervic

The bride-elect graduated from Kingwood school Cranbrook and St. Mary's college, Notre Dame, Ind. Her fiance attended the University of Michigan and is now studying at the University of Detroit. An October 18 wedding is planned.
