What an Asset Iris Are in Spring

Our iris is shaping up for its tune in the season's symphony. Yearly more gardeners appreciate these perennial for their late spring glamour. Iris are really the orchids of our gardens.

The garden designer can exclaim over an arrangement of gold and dark brown iris, with yellow glaucous petals and a delicate white spring glaucous. Iris are really the orchids of our gardens.

rhismoes. Pull up the offending grass or roots by hand instead. Do not cut off the leaves too hastily after flowering as this will hold back the development of the plant.

AFTER the flower has faded you may cut the stalk. You may break up your iris clumps in July if they have become too large. Do not break up these clumps unless there are so many worthwhile varieties and you will enjoy trading with your gardening neighbors (the good varieties).

It is possible to buy iris when they are in flower and choose the best color for them. Place the rhizome or root in a 2" x 2" x 2" surface of the soil and spread out the stony roots. Cover the rhizome with only an inch of soil. Do not water around an established iris bed as you are apt to damage the

WNFGA Officers To be Installed

VALLEY WOODS—The Valley Woods branch of the WNFGA will install officers at its May 12 meeting, 12:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Raymond Gorman on Wallen court.

Cochairwomen will be Mrs. Daniel Adams, Mrs. Leonard Hall and Mrs. Al Hartman. Mrs. Alice Wilbur will present the roster.

Mrs. Wilson McClellan, president, announced that the six Dogwood bushes, donated to Valley Woods elementary school were planted last week.

This week is Michigan week! Michigan is the nation's No. 1 producer of gladioli for bulbs with yearly production as high as 120 million bulbs. Two gladioli growing centers that have "gird" festivals each August are Coloma and Mesick.

Grow Pretty House Plants From 'Dinner'

It's easy and fun to grow lush green indoor plants from the seeds of fruits and vegetables and you need not cost you a cent! Just collect your seeds from the kitchen larder.

The seeds you collect from oranges, lemons and grapefruit should be planted in a 4 or 5 inch pot of soil, about half an inch down. You will get a fragrant, green citrus bush within a year.

Avocado pits should be put with the pointed end in the soil. The round side should be exposed to the air.

WITHIN THREE months you'll have an attractive 3 foot tree-like plant with long, thin, graceful stem, and big rich green leaves. Plant a peach pit about one inch deep. Mango pits should be placed on their side with just enough soil to cover them.

The all-time favorite is the sweet potato. Grandmother used to love to plant this one. Prop up the whole potato with toothpicks in an attractive jar. Be sure that the narrower end of the potato is resting in a bed of moist pebbles or water. You'll have a luxuriant vine in two or three months.

BE SURE TO have good drainage, and this can be achieved by placing broken pottery or shells in the container before you put in the soil.

THE QUESTION is often asked: "Do vines kill trees?"

The answer depends upon the method of fastening. Vines which wrap themselves around a branch, as wisteria, bittersweet, and honeysuckle do, soon restrict the flow of nutrients. Those which fasten themselves with root-like fasteners like ivy, clematis and climbing hydrangea do not harm the tree.

JAPANESE iris insist upon your iris clumps in July if they have become too large. Do not break up these clumps unless there are so many worthwhile varieties and you will enjoy trading with your gardening neighbors (the good varieties).

Siberian iris have butterfly-like flowers with leaves which look like grass blades. They, too, prefer full sun and are welcome because they are pest free.

You guessed it, I like iris.

MOST of our tree diseases begin with frost damage. Frost grown near the northern limits of their hardiness are often damaged by Spring frosts, which weaken the trees. If you plant a tree that needs to be babbled on the west or north exposure there will be less frost damage, even though it is colder.

If you like a white accent in the shade of your garden, you will enjoy the new white impatiens which we are seeing on our markets. It will grow about eight inches high. Impatiens is very susceptible to frost so be sure not to plant this tender plant outdoors until May 26th.

Remember three thicknesses of newspaper will give you frost protection.
