Senior English Class to See Play

Senior Survey English classes will be attending the film version of Oedipus Rex Nov. 17 at the Clawson Theater. This and other such excursions are a special part of the Survey course which deals more heavily on English literature than does the Modern course also provided at the high school.

French club held its first meeting last Wednesday night in the double room to elect officers and formulate programs for the coming year. President is Steve Taylor; vice president, Colin Grant; Waters and secretary-treasurer, Barbara Sayle.

The club plans a large membership drive to gain new members. Further plans were made for a Christmas party, and perhaps a visit to a French restaurant later in the year.

Plans are being made for a Harry Kimbush scholarship award in the memory of the late president of the senior class. The fund will probably be financed by voluntary contributions and will last only as long as the present three classes in the high school are here, ending with the graduation of this year's sophomore class. The Senior class is also planning some special tribute in addition to this fund. Many Birmingham high school students were in attendance at Harry's funeral which took place last Saturday. He will be sorely missed by all who knew him.

BHS Seniors are madly selling tickets to the Nov. 20-21 all school variety show, "Rages Through the Ages." It will be held in the Birmingham high school gym.

BUNA elected its officers for 1958-59 in a meeting held several weeks ago. Elected as president was Tom Brown; secretary-general, Don Van Doren; treasurer, Lynne Cloonan; secretary, Jane Thompson; historian, Ercie Rundle; chaplain, Ellen Schmink and parliamentarians, Dave Hunter, Clark Hudson and Dan Rodgers.

The junior class plans to sell Sanders candy as Christmas gifts and hopes to raise $3,000 to help balance the class treasury. The sophomores are selling wrapping paper to provide their class with a supply of money for this year. The seniors still well heeled from previous campaigns are not planning any organized project at this time.

Southfield Entertains Parents at Open House

By BARBARA TROY, JOHN COUP and JEFF ZATELL

This is "Visit Your Schools" week. Southfield entertained parents at an open house Tuesday. Although they had an opportunity to view the new cafeteria, the balance of the addition to the school was not open for inspection.

Principal Robert Hall expects the addition to be ready in the "near future." The addition will contain a 910 seat auditorium, two English classrooms, six commercial rooms, two art rooms, physics and chemistry rooms, a speech room, two music rooms and two language rooms.

Space has been provided in the addition for a reading room for accelerated reading, a photography laboratory, counseling center, public relations, special education room, a bookstore and biological greenhouse.

A traditional PTSA bake sale was held in conjunction with the Open House.

SOUTHFIELD students who participated in the Kiwanis Club Southfield Frolics, "Then and Now," were Tom Lambert, Dave Marsh, Phil LaVigne, Dick Burgess, Tom Clark, Mike Yoshino, Jim Parket, Ann Frygogle, Nancy Whitman, Jeanne Greenfield, Karen Erdich, Sherry Newville, Pat Jones, Daphne Dalrymple, Carol Domke, Julie Woodbridge, Darwin Muir, John Oldford, Larry and William, Donna Sloan and Sandy McColl.

Band instructor James Burrows was the general chairman of the show assisted by Miss Sandra Clifford, a member of the high school office staff.

Football coaches Monte Charles, Ed Bryant, Joe Pagan and Will Steinko prepared bathing beauties of yesteryear. School board members featured were Glenn Levey, Leif Larson, Glenn Schoenale, and Will Oliver.

TWO WEEKS ago seven seniors from Southfield auditioned for a two-month summer trip to Europe with the Michigan Youth Chorale. Each of the students has been accepted. Now all that stands between them and a delightful singing summer is the matter of $650 for boat fare. All other expenses will be paid by the Michigan Youth Chorale Association.

The students accepted are Joanne McJannet, Judy Gotberg, Jim Parker, Kathy Berberich, Sandy Niemi, Carol Domke, and Shawnee Smith. Concerts will be given in Germany, Holland, England, Ireland and Denmark.

Seniors Elaine Correa, Pat Fiedor, Dave Boyd, Cliff Solberg, Sue Erickson, and Sue Deem were among the sociology students who paid a visit to the Detroit Police Department and City Court for first-hand information on the two busy departments of the City of Detroit.

PARTICIPATING in the downtown branch of the YWCA Hobo Jambores, Y-Teen members sent Junior Mabel Hammar as their choice to compete for the title Hobo Queen.
