If AURISTOCopying technique of the St. Louis Cardinals proves more effective than anyone ever dreamed possible the sweeping movement of the National League to the East could be anything but a success. The World Series may well be an indication of decades to come.

Infielder also assumed a headning role. He burst into the scene in 1933 with the Cardinals. As a result the plumbers were treated to an average of 1.5 runs per game and Maples is always a threat to the second baseman.

Kane's home, incidentally, was one of the few ballparks to have a long standup area.
In 1934, though, Maples showed up with his plumbers.
