

Firebird 99

It has a motorized windshield wiper, real electric horn, gear shift and electric directional signals . . . it's a firebird 99 sports car. Two-and-a-half-year-old Sally Carpenter spotted the red and yellow plastic Remco toy priced at $5.60 at Daly's, 4518 North Woodward. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Carpenter, 584 Pleasant, Birmingham.

MOR-PLA JUMBO-BLOX

Every Day
Something New to Play

Entire set stores out of the way in 12
square inches.

Girls love them. Boys can't resist 'em. They make an "only" child's playroom the happiest spot in the neighborhood. They're one gift ALL the children (or grandchildren) will enjoy. They last for years, handed on from one child to the next, beloved by all!

Build dozens of things

You get enough blocks to build planes, trains, fire stations, puppet theatres, Wild West hideouts, circus rings, dog houses . . . a list as endless as your child's imagination . . . BIG things to play with, pretend with by the hour—in the kind of creative play that helps children learn and grow!

Sturdy — Safe

Things they build are steady—safe to climb on, fun to crawl into—thanks to the interlocking ends on each jumbo-size block. The Mor-Pla interlock is so simple, children enjoy the satisfaction of building by themselves—no need to ask you for help.

Made of clear, beautiful Ponderosa pine lumber, sanded flawlessly smooth. Set includes twelve hollow 6x6x12-inch blocks, four 1/4 x 6 x 36-inch boards . . . $33

Grandfathers were known to buy these cigars.

A SYMPATHETIC clerk, noticing the loads they carried, hurried to wait on them, and knew just what they wanted. He proudly put a carved humidor full of cigars on the counter and told Janie these were what "Grandpa John" always bought.

The second item was an ornate leather box, long and flat, full of cigars "Grandpa Will" said were the best on the market.

While the man chatted with Janie and wrapped the packages, Daddy fished in the secret compartment of his wallet and pulled out two more bills. He laid them on the counter and the smiling clerk asked for an additional 79 cents, "tax and all, you know," he said.

JANIE STRUGGLED bravely with her share of the packages going back to the car. While her eyes were aglow with joy, her feet had lost some of their bounce.

She sat very still going home, too, but not very straight, because her head kept falling against Daddy's arm, especially after the car pulled into the dark street where they lived.

In the house she proudly showed Mother all the presents except the purse, of course, and chattered like a magpie.

"It was such fun, Mommy, she squealed. "And know what? I've got another dollar that I didn't tell Daddy about. Next week when the stores are open at night and he can take care of the boys, you and I will go shopping so I can buy his Christmas present!"

FOR A MOMENT she forgot how tired she was and did a quick dance around the room, stopping in front of her parents with a gay, happy smile. "Won't that be fun?" "It sure will, Sugar," Father said as he solemnly handed his wife the bill. "Here's Janie's change, better keep it for her, You'll need it!"

Have Gun, Will Shoot

Hold-up men and dangerous Indians hiding in the dark corners of the living room range are as good as dead when a boy is armed with a Mattel Stage Coach Set. John Guenther, 4, of 1141 Lakepark, Birmingham, was trying out the authentic looking six-gun and model Winchester rifle while shopping with his mother, Mrs. John Guenther, at The Varsity Shop, 277 Pierce, Birmingham. The gun set sells for $11.91. The shop handles all types of sporting goods, toys and sport clothing. Manager Vince Secontine said the store has expanded its hockey equipment department and has a complete line of ski equipment.

Washable skin and hair, teen-age figures and wonderful wardrobes are featured in miniature dolls, Queens of 1958 toyland.

Music, Music

For the child who loves music, a 17-key accordion which comes in a variety of sizes is a must on your shopping list.
