Baldwin Library Adds Books to Holiday Collection

To provide further aid for families and groups in holiday planning, this week Baldwin public library added new books and records to its already extensive Christmas collection.

Sure to be helpful in Christmas programming will be Herbert Wernecke's "Christmas Songs & Their Stories." As an added convenience, Wernecke has included a national and racial grouping of the 54 titles covered.

For the family seeking information on everything from designing indoor and outdoor decorations to the origin of Christmas customs and traditions, Franklin Watts has compiled his "Complete Christmas Book."

THOSE INTERESTED in borrowing some unique Christmas customs from Sweden (holiday games as well as stories and recipes) will want to see the library's new "Swedish Christmas" book.

And for humor there's Kay Thompson's new "Eloise at Christmastime."

Among the new Christmas LP recordings are: "Now Is the Caroling Season," with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, and "The Mormon Tabernacle Choir Sings Christmas Carols," the latter of special interest locally in view of the choir's recent personal appearance in this area.

PATRONS are also reminded of the wealth of material already available in the Baldwin Library's Christmas collection. Books contain not only Christmas stories and poems but also games, decorating and gift-making ideas, holiday traditions and plays for holiday presentation.

Records include all the favorite Christmas melodies, both instrumental and vocal, some featuring special groups, such as the Welch Chorus which is joined by music boxes from the famed Bormand Collection.
