

Most of us quite humanly have doubts about various subjects, most of them, however, to do with affairs related to the materialistic society in which we live. Comparatively few people have doubts about the value and virtue of practicing, or trying to practice, the Golden Rule and similar ethical axioms. In brief, our doubts are concerned with less fundamental subjects than Truth, Goodness.

BHS Stages 'Rages Through the Ages'

BHS Highland Lassies dance to the night. The girls were directed by Mary squirling bagpipes that echoed from every corner of the gym Thursday and Friday

Bill Alcorn and Bill Stark perform "gym antics" for the "standing room only" audience.

Jim Griffin and Phil Russell growl their version of a picnic, caveman style. Classmates traced the outdoor lunch from the days of Adam and Eve through pioneering stages to prohibition.

Even the faculty got into the act. Ralph Battenhouse, chemistry instructor, and George Cooch, French instructor, jazz it up, while their feminine colleagues perform in the background.

Senior Variety Show's a Success

The Variety show was a success again this year! Under the apt direction of Miss Roberts Arnold, Rages Through The Ages "raged" all the way from the prehistoric Indians to the modern "beats."

Colorful decorations were provided by the art classes. The band and glee club also added much to the performance.

Standout acts were the Four Mists, a modern jazz combo, the Highland Fling with an authentic Highland bag piper. And, of course, the teachers' act—a jazz band with the chorus line doing a rendition of the Charleston. The show was a sell-out both nights.

The Birmingham high school debate team ran into a stone wall when it met Country Day last Friday afternoon. The Maples won one reserve affirmative decision and lost the other three debates. This leaves the team with a 5-3 record in league competition. This Tuesday (See MATTERS, Page 3-D)
