

New Changes in 1959 Rambler

The compact Rambler, which set an all-time high sales record this year, features new styling and engineering changes designed to further increase economy of operation and durability for 1959. The new six-cylinder and V-8 models will go on sale at Birmingham Rambler Inc., 666 S. Woodward, next Thursday, according to president Desmond McAllister. Shown is the 1959 Rambler Cross Country four-door station wagon, the most popular model in the Rambler line. All Rambler bodies are "deep-dipped" in a rust preventing primer during manufacturing to give the car longer life.

Proposed Building Can Cross Easement To Railroad Siding

To enable it to use an adjoining railroad siding, the Henry Dahlquist Sales Co. will be permitted to build a loading dock across a 66-inch trunk sewer easement.

Birmingham city commissioners granted this approval after making sure the construction would place no stress on the sewer, about 12 feet underground.

The building will be on Cole street, east of 21st.

City's Roadoilng Share Is Lower

Lower construction costs and an assessment rate increase resulted in less city participation in the summer road oiling and sealing program, DPW Supt. T. C. Brien reported last week.

He said city share is 5.42 per cent, compared to 14.66 per cent participation last year. The city tries to hold its share to 10 per cent or less.

Representatives of both parties have been invited to attend the Birmingham Unitarian Church Men's club dinner at 7 p.m. The speaking portion of the program will be open to the public at 8 p.m.

- Government Williams' indication of a need for increased state revenue for state government operation.
- How to encourage industry to remain in Michigan, and how to bring industry into the state.
