

BAA Members To Enter Work In Art Exhibit

Over 70 artists and craftsmen in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area are expected to enter their work this week in the annual exhibit of members of the Bloomfield Art Association. According to Kayl Hill, chairman of this show committee, in the painting category alone about 150 pictures have been scheduled by local artists.

"Sculpture, weaving, silver, mosaic just about every type of art medium will be represented, with the exception of photography," said Mrs. Hill. A special show for photographers is being planned for a later date.

THIS WEEKEND is the receiving date for all that will be entered by members of the BAA. Members of the committee will be on hand at the association's art galleries in Birmingham to receive the various items submitted by member artists.

Thursday and Saturday nights of this week, from 7 to 9, and Sunday afternoon from two to five are the logging-in periods. Members of the committee working at the galleries include Dorothy Siddle, Svea Kline, Julie Webb, Betty Farrell, Margaret Valpey, Florence Kinney, Marian Lenhard, Betsy Miller and Bertha Dumbrique.

The show will open its doors to the public in the middle of October, and will remain in the association's galleries on North Woodward, in Birmingham, for one month. During that time, local artists will receive all entries in the painting category. He will lead an informal discussion of these items at the conclusion of the exhibit.

Penelope Ball, Guest Artist At October Meet

Penelope Ball, pianist, of Chestnut field, will be guest artist at the Oct. 9 meeting of Zeta Xi chapter of Delta Omicron, national professional music fraternity. Miss Ball was the 1957 winner of the Delta Omicron scholarship to Inter-collegiate National Music camp.

Special honored guest will be the national president of Delta Omicron, Mrs. Milton Petzold, who is currently making a tour of midwestern college campuses visiting chapters of the fraternity.

National first vice president, Mrs. C. S. Bishop and past national president, Dr. Marie Marti, will also attend the 8 p. m. meeting at the home of Mrs. F. W. Grider, 4451 Arlington drive, Beverly Hills.

Birmingham members attending will be Mrs. Bessie McMechan, program chairman, Roberts and Mrs. Alice Gurche.

MRS. RONALD SEIBER Ronald Seibers Honeymooning In California

Gowned in white silk mist taffeta, Denise Beatrice Robins became the bride of Ronald Russell Seiber Saturday afternoon at Christ Church Cranbrook. The Rev. William Norvell performed the 4 o'clock ceremony in the presence of 150 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robins of Orchard Lake. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Seiber of Kansas City, Mo.

THE BRIDE'S GOWN featured alencon lace on the bodice extending down the back of the chapel train. A pear shaped secured her silk illusion veil. She carried white orchids and lily of the valley.

Sally Blanchard was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. John Rogers and Mrs. Arthur Robins. Attendants were gowned in rose red velvet with draped satin skirts with matching velvet bands. They carried pale pink roses.

Arthur Robins stood as best man and ushers were John Rogers and Theodore Watson.

MRS. ROBINS chose for her daughter's wedding a pale pink imported brocade dress with a bell-shaped skirt and matching velvet hat.

The bride changed to a green wool suit with brown accessories for her honeymoon to Pasadena, Calif.

'The Matchmaker' Opens Season At St. Dunstan's

Members of St. Dunstan's guild are in final rehearsal for the first offering of their 28th season, the comedy hit "The Matchmaker." The show's first performance Oct. 10 at the Cranbrook Pavilion, Lone Pine road, with three additional performances Oct. 11, 17 and 18. The Matchmaker has twice been a long-run Broadway hit and is presently a successful movie.

It concerns the involved and humorous situations that occur when Horace Vandergelder, played by Roger Marquis, a 60-year-old successful merchant in Yonkers, N. Y., and a widower, decides that a second fling at romance and matrimony would add much spice to his life.

Mrs. Levi, played by Mrs. Benjamin Brewster, is an old family friend, but also a matchmaker, who is all too actively engaged in helping Horace fulfill his romantic inclinations.

Adding to the merriment are Cornelius Hackl, acted by Roy Carson, a devoted hardworking clerk in Mr. Vandergelder's store, who at age 33, has seen nothing of life and decides to seek adventure in misadventure in Barnaby Rudge, played by Tom Maubard, an energetic but thoroughly confused young man.

Cornelius and Barnaby encounter Mrs. Molloy, played by Mrs. Waldemar Adams, and her scatterbrained assistant, Minnie Fay, played by Mrs. Richard T. O'Reilly. Mrs. Molloy is spinning her web in anticipation of the chance to be freed from the tedium of her millinery shop by marrying Mr. Vandergelder.

Then there's Malacki Stack, a clever but shiftless fellow, played by Maurice Smith, and Ermenegarde, Mr. Vandergelder's niece, played by Mary K. Hain, determined to marry Andrew Kemper, a young artist who greatly displeases her uncle, and Miss Flora Van Huyen, an old family friend, played by Mrs. Albert Remington.

Others in the cast are Mrs. Don Hutton, Mrs. Wherry Martin, John Kuech, Martin Swift, Bob Styer and George Miller. The show is directed by Robert Garrison with Mrs. Glenn Miller assisting. Mrs. Otis Thompson is executive producer, properties by Mrs. Naomi Doucety, sets by Robert Raich and lights by William Holmes. All performances are open to the public.

Birthdays, anniversaries, guests, births, parties are all new—all the society order about them.

Decorative Arts To Be Series Of Five Talks

One of the most unusual events to take place in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area this year will be a series of talks by Virginia Harriman, assistant curator, Detroit Institute of Arts. On Oct. 14 at 10 a.m. Miss Harriman begins a series of five talks on "Decorative Arts of the Italian Renaissance."

This brief series is one of the activities sponsored jointly by the Bloomfield Art Association and the Village Woman's club, in cooperation with the extension services of the Detroit Institute of Arts. Her talks will be illustrated throughout with color slides. The five talks are spaced weekly over the period through November 18, with the sole exception of Oct. 28. The series will be followed by a tour, personally conducted by Miss Harriman, of a special fall exhibit of national interest being set up at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Over 300 objects have been borrowed from Europe and the U. S. to create this exhibit. Textiles, jewelry, glass, furniture, metals, majolica and bronze objects are among the objects included.

Important loans to the exhibit have been made by the Victoria and Albert museum in London, Rijks museum in Amsterdam, Ca d'oro in Venice, and by many other institutions. The Morgan library is sending a most valuable illuminated manuscript, the Book of Hours, and the Philadelphia museum is sending the fabulous Hercules Tapestries.

Other objects, including famous jewels, will be on display. Miss Harriman's lectures and tour will describe the history and significance of these objects, with the general purpose of expanding the audience's understanding of the Renaissance decorative arts.

Reservations for the series are made through Mrs. E. E. Harms, of Barclay road, Bloomfield. The talks will be given at the Bloomfield Art Association's galleries on North Woodward avenue in Birmingham.

Marguerite Parrish Guest Speaker at Junior Women's Club
