WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Note to readers: Thanks for all the nice letters. As many questions as possible will be answered in this column, but for obvious reasons replies must be brief.

Q. "What can I do for bad breath? I have my car's 'Please help!' — An Arizona reader."

A. Bad breath (halitosis) is almost always due to some abnormal condition in the mouth or breathing passages. In locating the trouble the physician or dentist will usually start with the teeth. The tonsils may then be examined for infection. Another frequent cause of bad breath is infection in the nose or in the space behind the nose. Some cases of halitosis may be due to chronic disturbance in the stomach and intestines. People troubled by bad breath should seek medical advice.

Q. "Can you inherit syphilis?" — A. No. While instances of congenital syphilis occur, "congenital" means that a condition is present at birth but not necessarily inherited. What usually happens in syphilis is that the baby becomes infected from the mother before birth. "Fetal syphilis" might be a better term since it indicates without question that infection takes place some time before birth.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Dr. J. P. DeLoach, Science Editor, P.O. Box 396, Madison Square Station, N. Y. 10, N. Y., will be incorporated in these columns when possible.
