

'The Potting Shed'

"The Potting Shed", a mystery play by Graham Greene, opened last Friday at St. Dunstan's Guild on Lane Fine road. The show is scheduled for 2 more performances, April 17 and 18. The plot revolves around some dark event which occurred in the potting shed behind the home of the Califer family many years ago. Cast in the play are (from left) Natalie Adams, the niece whose curiosity helps reveal the secret; Jerry's McMechan, the son who seeks to unlock the occurrence which has clouded his life for 20 years; Mrs. Francis Loud, who is assisting McMechan in directing the play and (standing) Peggy Jones, as the son's ex-wife.

Pembroke School Plans "Panic"

Children's futurity is the theme of Pembroke elementary school's fifth annual "Panic" on Friday, April 24. The doors will open at the end of the school day, 3:30 p.m., and close at 6:30 p.m.

Mothers, students and teachers have planned the event under the direction of chairman Mrs. Donald Pennell and co-chairmen Mrs. George Beard, Maurice Baumann is in charge of outside activities such as pony rides and will supervise inside activities. Baumann is also directing fathers active in the project.

The PTA, under the direction of president Ed P. Vines originated this fun day for children in a place where education was the principle purpose. It is also designed to introduce parents in a school activity.

Each grade has been assigned a project and is responsible for making it a success. Grade chairmen for the kindergarten class are Mrs. George Roebuck, Jr., ticket sales; Mrs. Charles Schruhl, snack bar; and Mrs. George Tebble, fish pond. First grades have as their project the bake sale under the direction of Mrs. Archie Coran.

Second grade, with the help of Mrs. John Gregerson, will handle pop and ice cream. Door prizes, class pictures and the book sale will be taken care of by Mrs. George Whitehead and third graders.

Fourth graders have games, with Mrs. W. H. Ruggles, Jr., supervising. A white elephant sale and make-up for fun will be the project of the fifth graders and Mrs. Alfred Amos, while the sixth graders, under Mrs. Charles Losenko, are making plans for movies and a class spook house.
