Test Yourself—Are You a Safe Driver?

You're driving down a highway at night. The bright lights of the oncoming car blind you.

If you're smart you (a) counteract the effect of the other car's lights by flicking on yours, (b) speed up so you can get past the other car quicker, (c) slow down and keep your eyes on the right edge of the road.

If you picked "c" you're hep to the safer points of driving, the National safety council says. And if you didn't? Well, see if you can't do better on these questions:

1. Good drivers know they should brake (a) before entering a curve (b) on the curve.
2. It's advisable to slow down below the posted speed limit when (a) other traffic is whizzing past you, (b) it's raining, (c) a police car is behind you.
3. If the wheels of your car go off the right side of the road and onto a soft shoulder, you should (a) jerk the wheel to the left before the tires have a chance to sink down in the soft ground, (b) hit the brakes to stop the car quickly, (c) take your foot off the gas pedal and wait till your car slows down before returning to the highway.
4. On a steep hill, before your car gains too much momentum, it's wise to (a) use your brakes so the car won't pick up too much speed, (b) shift into a lower gear and use the motor for braking, (c) pull your parking brake on periodically.

People's Column Newcomers Ask Reprint of Student Letter

To the Editor:

The "People's Column" in the April 9 Eccentric has indeed made us stop and think, and become much more concerned about the existing situation in our High Schools.

We have just recently moved into this area, and have been shocked at some of the conversations we hear is going on at school. We have attributed it to mere talk of teenagers trying to impress the less sophisticated.

However, the article in your paper indicates there is a real cause for concern. Being parents of teenagers, we too, feel that something should be done.

We would appreciate if the letter by the University Student could be reprinted for those of us who are new here.

CONCERNED PARENTS.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the original letter from "University Student" as published in our Feb. 5, 1959 issue:

To the Editor:

A while back I was involved in an automobile accident. It was very serious even though no one but myself was involved. The purpose of this letter is to hope that through your paper some other young man like myself, doesn't have to go through the same experiences that I have gone through.

The experiences that I talk of were all brought about by a drinking habit acquired at an early age.

What brought about this drinking habit I don't know. That's something for the psychologists to work on. All I know is that it could have been avoided and I hope that maybe this letter and your paper may be able to stop some other person from starting a habit like this.

I AM NOW a sophomore at an Ohio university. I did very well my freshman year, but this year my fast living caught up with me. Just since the accident I realize this. I have lost the respect and love of my friends, have done poorly at school, and lost my own self respect.

I feel that something must be done in the Birmingham area to remedy the problem that most people know to exist. I have met people here on campus who have been shocked at some of the stories of Birmingham parties I told them—none were exaggerated.

From these reactions I feel that Birmingham definitely has a problem worse than that of many other cities and something should be done about it. I believe that this "something" that I speak of has got to come from the home of the people involved.
